Provine High School

To a real friend -

Dedication

- FOR the determination that inspires
Provine to march forward . . .
- FOR the versatility that leads him into the varied avenues of Provine's life . . .
- FOR the ingenuity and subtle wit that have proved beneficial, not only to the band, but to the entire student body . . .
- FOR the leadership and ambition that daily exemplify his aspirations and goals for Provine . . .
- FOR these qualities and others, the annual staff proudly dedicates the 1962 Aries to MR. JOHN PAUL JONES.

Preparing the Provine Band for a concert performance, Mr. Jones directs the woodwind section in a tricky movement.

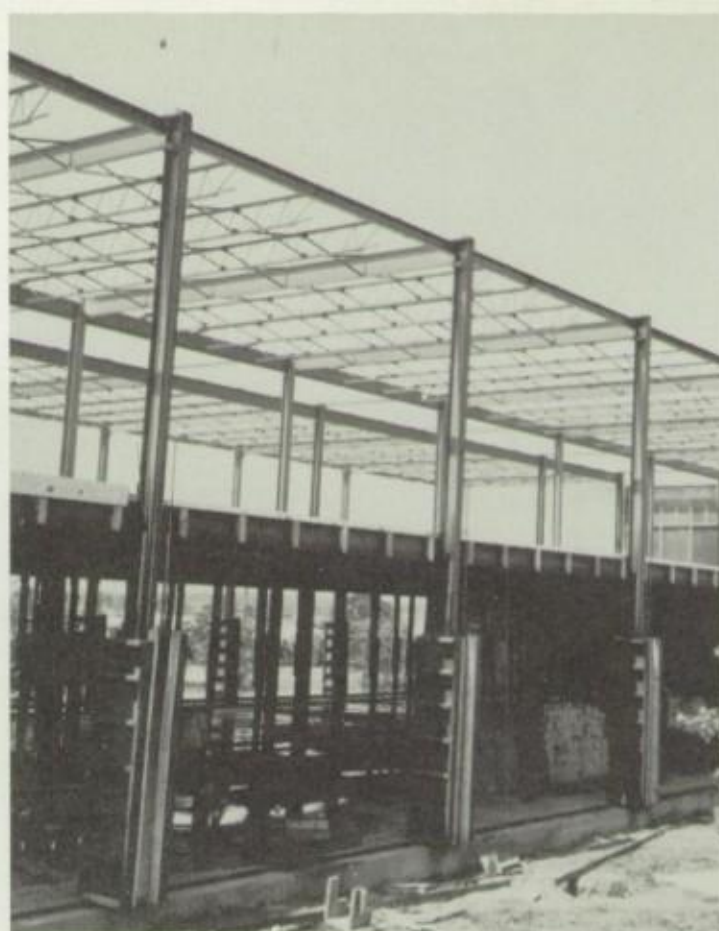

At the football game with Natchez, Mr. Jones watches, with a pained expression, as a Ram pass falls incomplete.

Steel, wood, and concrete—the building blocks of future classrooms—lie ready for use by the workmen.

Forming an intricate silhouette, steel girders rise against the sky.

Annex, More Students, Expanded Faculty

Like a road to nowhere, a new sidewalk ends amid the rubble of construction.

To expedite the flow of traffic in front of Provine, city workers toil to complete the widening of Robinson Street.

The sophomores co-operate by holding classes in the auditorium until the new addition is completed.

Mark Step in Provine's Growth.

Donna Dickson, head cheerleader, welcomes newcomers William Farnam, Diane Stubbs, and Veronica Orth as she sells them a season football ticket.

New teachers, Mrs. Anderson, Mr. Burnside, and Mr. Long, find themselves looking for a "needle in a haystack" as they search for their mail in the crowded teachers' mailbox.

Examination week finds tests and more tests being produced as veteran instructors, Mrs. Latta, Mr. Buckley, Mrs. McPhail, and Mr. Taylor, gather around the mimeograph machine.

Proudly flying above Provine, Old Glory dramatically represents the ideals of a patriotic student body.

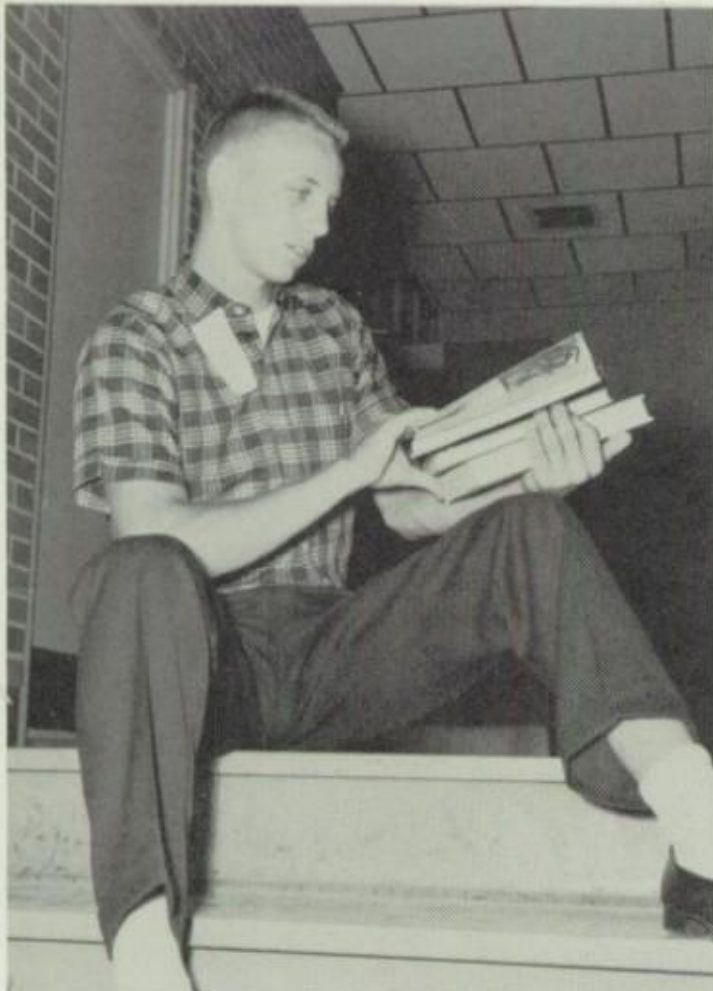

Veteran Rams Uphold Provine Traditions

Gleaming in the trophy cases are numerous plaques and trophies, evidence of past Provine achievements.

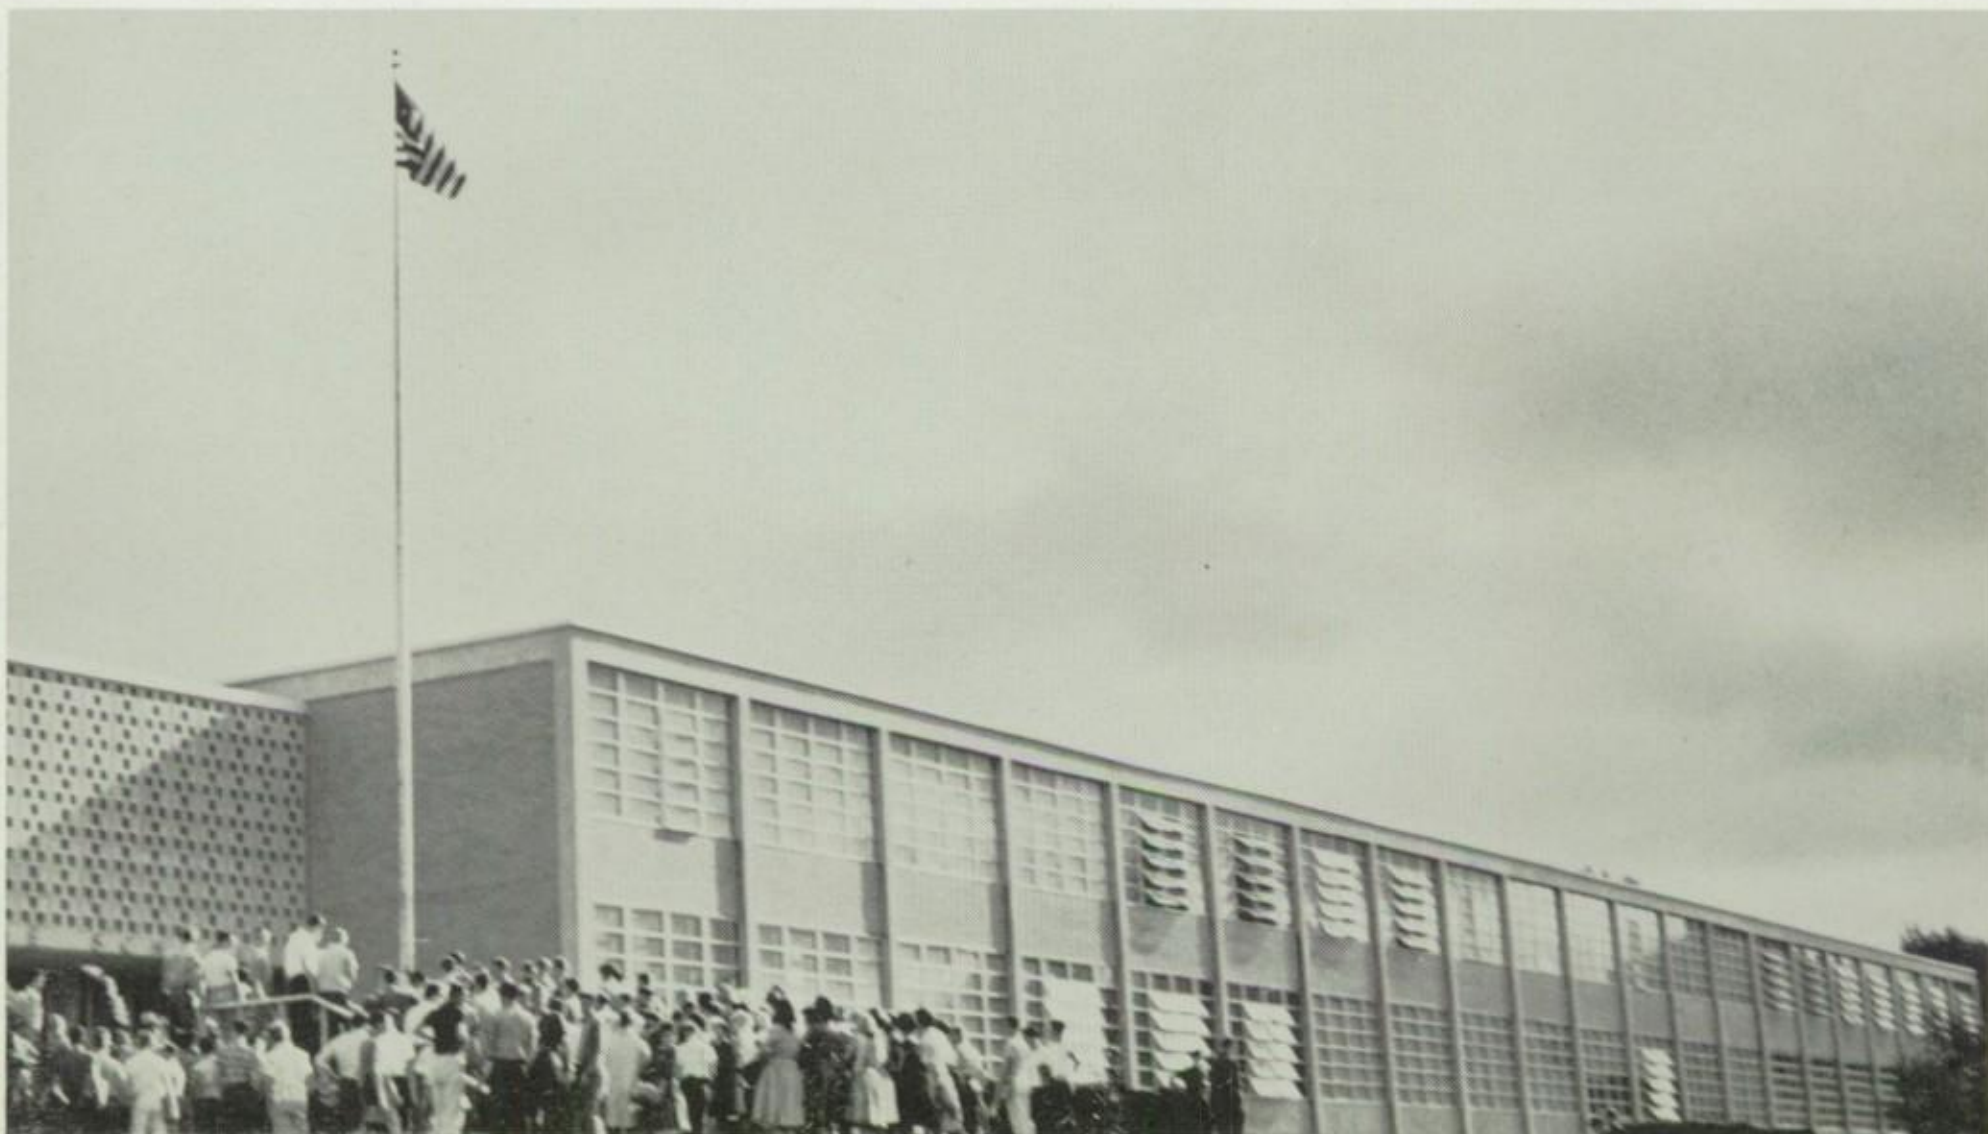

Charles Wilkinson, the president of the student body, grabs a spare moment before school to look over a literature assignment.

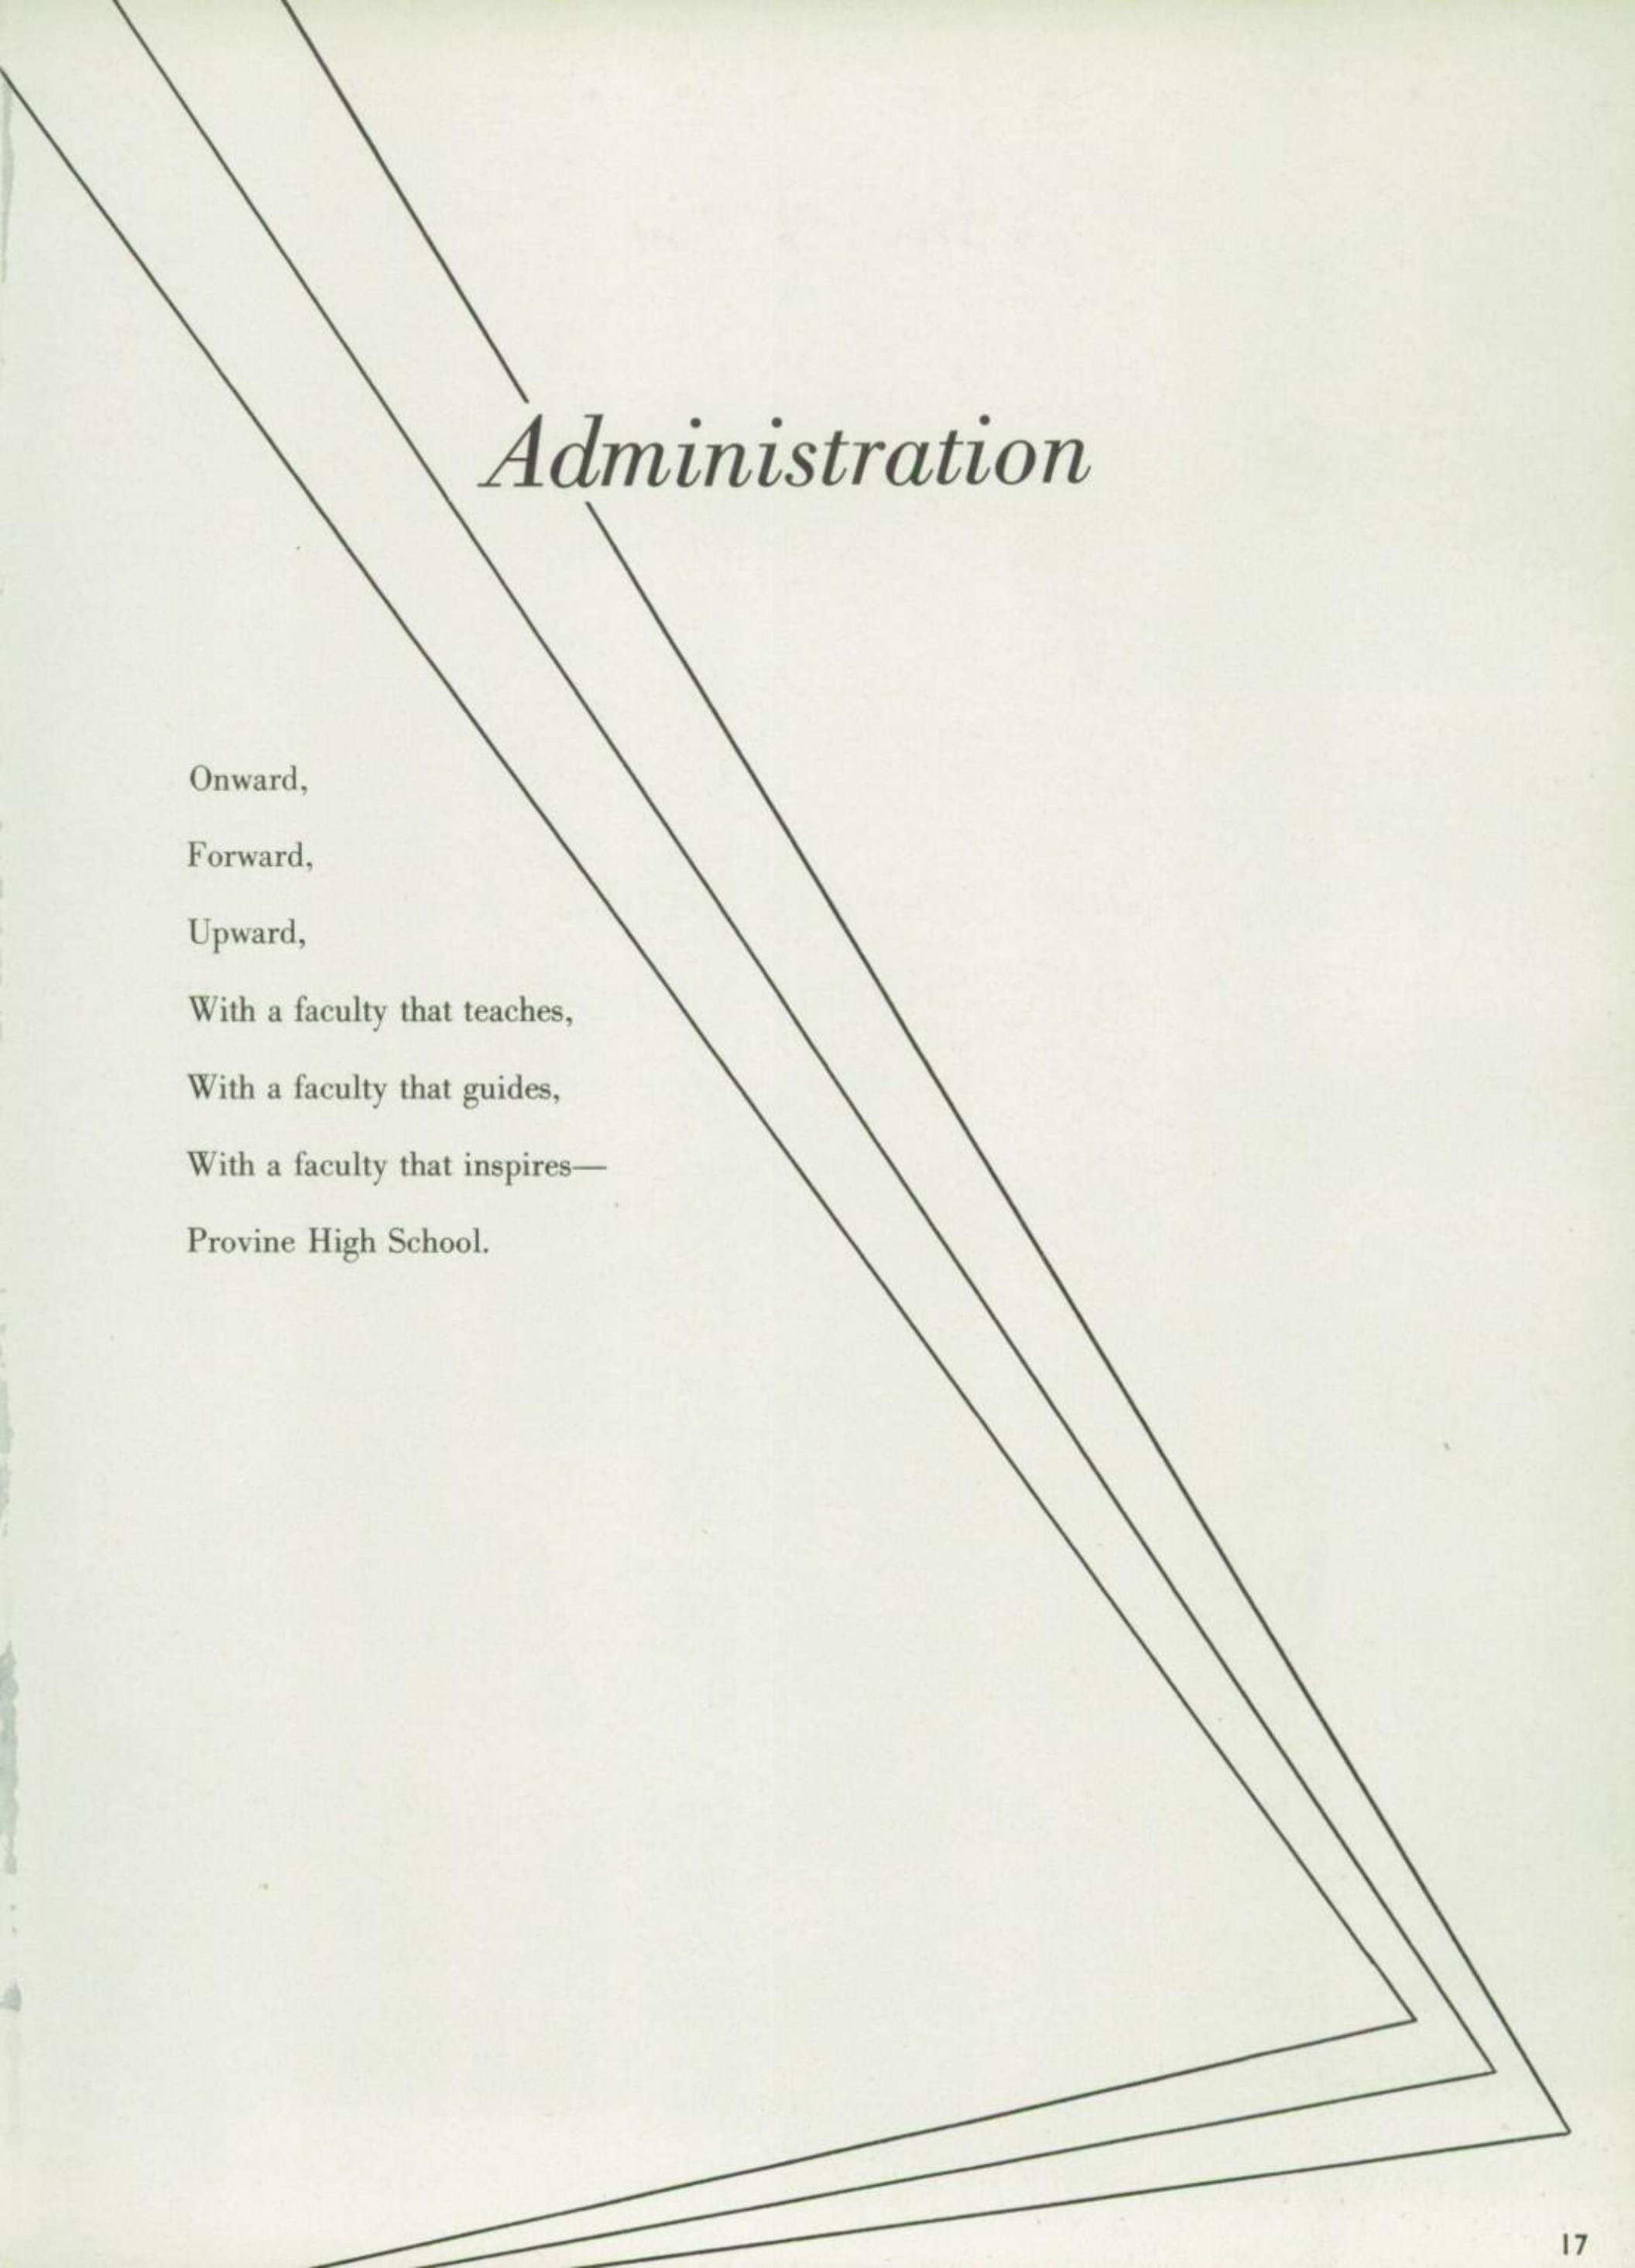

Mass confusion reigns in the hall as students claw their ways attempting to leave the auditorium.

As Both Old and New Unite.

The morning sun shines down on the finished product—a combination of old and new, the past and the present—Provine High School, 1962.

Administration

Onward,

Forward,

Upward,

With a faculty that teaches,

With a faculty that guides,

With a faculty that inspires—

Provine High School.

Pushing Jackson upward academically, the School Board performs an indispensable service for Provine. The Board of Trustees, consisting of a group of five men serving without pay for a five-year term, is the governing body of the school system. Acting as the executive power is the Superintendent of Schools, who is the professional advisor to the Board of Trustees. Employing teachers, supervising the building program, and stating official policies are included in their numerous duties. Under the leadership of these civic-minded men, the entire Jackson Public School System is constantly progressing.

Jackson School Board Provides Leadership for Vigorous, Expanding Educational System.

Board of Trustees—sitting left to right: Lester Alvis, vice-president; W. M. Buie, president. Standing: W. G. Mize, member; C. H. King, member; Lamar Noble, secretary.

As Provine High School Moves Ever Forward, Principal Serves as Vanguard of Progress.

Doubled enrollment of students and increased faculty, eleven new classrooms annexed, over sixty-two National Merit semi-finalists, Big Eight Championships in both basketball and football, hundreds of scholarships awarded to Provine students, All-American newspaper and, most important, higher standards in conduct and academic achievement—in seven years, led by a man named Mr. Hal France, Provine has accomplished these things and much more.

Mr. France—known for his leadership, respected for his honesty and sincerity, noted for his enthusiastic support of everything Provine does—has spearheaded Provine's drive for progress.

Counseling Department Prepares Provincites for College by Supervising Testing Program.

"Should I take physics this year?" "Which college is best for me?" "Do I have a chance for a scholarship?" These important questions are sometimes difficult to answer without proper counseling. Province's counseling department remains ever prepared to assist pupils in making the correct decisions. Each year the counseling department provides various tests which help prepare students to meet college entrance requirements.

Students who encounter problems in the academic and social phases of their school life can freely discuss their particular situations with the counselors. Often, the counselor presents a very simple and logical solution to the problems.

With the help of Miss Bisland, seniors Kay Rayfield, Carol Hodges, Hugh Tucker, and Lee Schilling study college catalogs.

Office Staff Cheerfully Does Paper Work.

Patience is a great virtue and a necessary one for the office staff. These ladies are the ones that keep Provine running without a slip-up. It is imperative that they carry on their work efficiently; any mistake could mar a student's record or affect routine drastically. The cheerfulness with which the office staff greets a Provine student is a pleasant reminder of the atmosphere they help to create in Provine's halls.

With all the necessary water colors, brushes, and pencils around her, Diane Marler begins a landscape.

Across the printed page march figures from Chaucer's Canterbury Tales; "Friends, Romans, Countrymen," pleads Mark Antony; Ben Franklin doffs his hat, as Provine English students grasp, through literature, the folklore and customs of past eras.

Themes, research papers, and Palladian compositions mold authors of the future, while grammar and spelling produce a better comprehension of the form of the language.

Vocabulary, and Shakespeare's 'Julius Caesar.'

Shakespeare is introduced to the sophomores through Julius Caesar. Projects on early America, book reports, and themes spice the English classes of juniors. Studying Irving, Whitman, and Sandburg gives them foundation in American literature. Seniors write themes and term papers, study word history and vocabulary as they prepare for college. Great works of English literature—Beowulf, Canterbury Tales, and Macbeth—instill within the twelfth graders a greater understanding of English literature.

Languages Introduce 'Si,' 'Oui,' and 'Ita.'

"De gustibus non putandum est." Linguistics is a promising field for those who strive for perfection. Already Provine's Latin, French, and Spanish students are finding rewards connected with languages. No one will forget bidding at the slave auction, stuffing himself at the pizza party, tasting the cuisine at the French soirée, or taking the Spanish trip to Mexico.

Too little language work has been a repeated criticism of the American school system. The large number of students enrolled in foreign language courses at Provine indicates that Provine students have accepted this challenge and are meeting it.

"Happy Birthday, dear Vergil," sing third year Latin students Margaret Riley, Sue Anderson, Beth Ewing, Martha Holliday, Jimmy Purser, Victor McDearman, Eddie Strahan, Jeanie Farris, Diane Mahaffey, Jerry Boyette, Norma Nicholson, and Lynn Simms. The famous poet was 2,031 years old on October 15.

Homemaking

Homemaking Prepares Girls for Role of Wife and Mother.

"There are four important parts in threading the head of a sewing machine," instructs Mrs. Hinton to a homemaking student.

What is the fifth step in the ladder of love? Do you keep your clothing neat and tidy? Do you have patience with modern ideas? Questions such as these confront future homemakers in Provine's homemaking department.

Marching toward the goal of making better homemakers, this department gives instruction in family and personal living, food and clothing, care of the sick, and understanding of children.

Journalism Gives Editors-to-Be Necessary Newspaper Training.

To second and third year journalism students goes the responsibility of producing the school newspaper, the Rambler, while first-year students learn the fundamentals of all phases of journalism: newswriting, copyreading, proofreading, and rewriting. Each year the journalism department makes field trips to local newspapers and various press conferences to give students the chance to broaden their knowledge and interests in journalism.

Mr. Vinson supervises production of the Rambler as staff members Jeanne Burnet, Larry Joe Copeland, Jimmy Purser, and Martha Holliday begin work on another edition.

Library Contains Wisdom of Ages for Students.

"Where are the biographies?" "Shhh—Be quiet!" "I need a book by a British author." Books play an important part in the school lives of Provine students, and this year the library's collection of books is bigger than ever before. Because of the addition of eleven new classrooms, the library is no longer used as a study hall. An increased enrollment has entitled Provine to hire an assistant librarian.

Instrumental Music

Music Department's Familiar Sounds Include Crashing of Drums and Booming of Voices.

Mike Cottingham finds time to smile for the cameraman as he marches along with the band in the Forestry Parade.

Long grueling hours of marching, pulled muscles and strained tendons from standing the entire period in choral music, and tedious moments in string class when the violins make that well-timed, strident squeak—this is music?

The exhausting, although enjoyable band trips, the well-received choral music performances, and the entertaining periods when string students eagerly follow the score to an emotion-stirring symphony—these are some of the components of the music program.

The culmination of these efforts is not only the finely trained groups, but the development of an appreciation for the art of music.

Although solid geometry class benefits most students, it seems to have sent Charlie Sullivan into another realm. As he peacefully sleeps, Glen Kinzey, Jo Lachina, Bennie Lou Satterwhite, and Jimmy Gentry observe as Steve Sanders explains a solid geometrical figure.

Mathematics Fills Students' Lives With Radicals,

"Figures don't lie; they stand up straight," says a lowly trig student trying to impress his teacher with a mathematics pun. But there are no two ways about it; figures do not lie and no amount of feigned effort, not even apple-polishing the teacher, can result in the correct answer.

Vertex Angles, Tangents, and Dodecahedrons.

Students find the "language of science" courses challenging and for the most part interesting. Those students who wish to pursue more advanced studies may attend early morning classes.

Through these courses, the math department fulfills a threefold purpose: to provide for the student an objective form of thinking through a logical arrangement of facts, to acquaint him with the basic concepts of mathematics upon which he can build a strong foundation for further studies, and to stress the importance of mathematical knowledge in everyday life.

Victor McDearman doesn't seem to know which end is up, mathematically speaking, as he struggles to find which angle is where.

Physical Education Develops Fit Americans.

To most Provine students the term "physical education" means nothing. "Gym" is the word which they apply to the welcome break in the day's heavy schedule. Every student anxiously awaits gym as a time of participating in basketball, softball, volleyball, or weightlifting to let off excess energy or just to relax a minute. With the addition of the beautiful new tennis courts, practically every sport is readily available to Provine students.

Provine students think of science not only as a course in which much study is necessary, but also as a course to enjoy, one in which they may meet many fascinating creatures. Biology students are confronted with the ever-changing amoeba, the speedy paramecium, and other organisms that inhabit the wondrous microscopic world. Brain-racked expressions and burned fingers are the marks of the physics and chemistry students, while bleary eyes mark the advanced students who attend the early morning science class. Provine's science courses offer an explanation of the scientific and natural phenomena that occur every day.

Social Science Presents a Study of Mankind.

From the Roman Empire at its peak, to the present day Communist Cuba; from Julius Caesar to John Kennedy, the social science department fills in all the historical details of the years in between.

Insignificant happenings that change the course of history are examined and analyzed in class discussions, as students profit from the experiences of others.

In order to be good citizens and capable leaders of the future, students must acquire a thorough understanding of the successes and failures of past civilizations. Provine's social science courses encompass the political, social, economic, scientific, religious, and artistic developments of civilizations, past and present, enabling Provine students to obtain a broad knowledge of the past and present and to apply this knowledge to the future.

As Steve Sanders looks on happily, Chairman James Peder rules Howard Rainey out of order during the practice of parliamentary procedure.

"Mr. Chairman, I object to the consideration of this discussion, which I believe to be irrelevant and immaterial." Such are the words which may come from future Perry Masons and orators in the speech department. Attending Youth Congress, drawing up class constitutions, developing proper techniques of speaking, learning principles of debating, and assisting in dramatic productions are all facets of Provine's active speech department.

Bringggg—the disconcerting ring of the time buzzer jostles novice typists from that horrid state of confusion—the time drill. MRS. GLENN KROHN
Cafeteria Manager

Cafeteria Staff Prepares Provine's Nutritious Meals as Janitorial Staff Keeps Rooms and Halls Spotless.

"Give me a fudge square—no, a carrot salad; oh, give me both!" This problem of selecting foods often confronts students as Provine's cafeteria staff prepares well-balanced, colorful meals. The delicious lunches, when combined with the cheerful cafeteria atmosphere and new tables, chairs, and trays, result in one of the students' favorite places—the Provine cafeteria.

Mounds of wadded paper, piles of broken milk bottles, miles of dirty halls—that's what Provine would be without its efficient janitorial staff. Aside from its regular cleaning duties, this well-organized group, by its friendliness and sincerity, makes a major contribution to the school's morale.

Preparing and serving nutritious and appetizing meals to Provine students and faculty members is the job of the cafeteria staff. They are as follows: Lee Ernest Battle, Mamie Hunter, Pauline Hartley, Gene Gaddis, Johnnie Bell Thornton, Willie Bee Tobias, Luvada Campbell, Devon Stewart, Lottie Mae Green, Roxie Brown, Rosa Lee McNeil, and Beatrice Patterson.

Keeping the furniture dusted, the windows washed and the floors swept is the function of the Provine janitorial staff. They are as follows: Charles Melvin Lofton, Gertrude Robinson, Willie MacDougal, Clyde Robinson, and Elvan Heath (not pictured).

Augustine Proctor, head janitor, proudly raises the Stars and Stripes over Provine.

Provine High School.

Summer's End Begins New Year at Provine.

"Come on, Frank; leave a little for the other guys," insists Coach Irby of Frank Schneider at the football barbecue this summer.

"Hasn't anybody ever heard of the child labor law?" thinks Jimmy Gentry, as he fights Mother Nature by mowing his lawn during the summer vacation.

Having captured first place in the state and second in the Deep South, Ram cheerleaders, Pam Hiatt, Sandra Harris, Donna Dickson, Alice Criswell, Vicki Howard, and Jean Kinard, display the gleaming trophy that they won at the Mid-South Cheerleading Institute held in August at Ole Miss.

Girls' and Boys' State, the Junior Miss Jackson contest, the national JCL convention at Indiana University, and tryouts for the choir provided summer highlights for many Provine students. For most, the long summer days meant swimming, skiing, traveling, and working.

Finally the carefree days of summer were over; and September came, with the Labor Day weekend and registration for school. School opened on September 14, with sophomores holding sessions in the auditorium because of the late completion of the new addition, juniors becoming more and more a part of Provine, and seniors loving Provine and looking forward to graduation. Thus opened the 1961-62 school year.

While undergoing treatment at Warm Springs, Georgia, junior Natalie Brown keeps up with her assignments by reading the Pulitzer Prize-winning John Brown's Body. Natalie returned to Provine at the beginning of third term to complete her junior year.

"Rave on, O Coach!" thinks Mr. France as Coach Rutter explains just exactly how he made the shot, as the pair improve their golfing skill in an afternoon game.

Democracy is emphasized each morning by the students' repeating the Pledge of Allegiance before each day's devotional. Naomi Barlow holds the flag as members of Mrs. Latta's first period class repeat the patriotic phrases.

Daily Happenings Find Place in Memories.

"Will you please stand for the pledge of the allegiance to the flag." These words heard over the PA system usually began a Provine student's day.

Bells ringing every fifty-six minutes; lockers clicking; clubs and assembly programs during activity period; eating with friends during lunch time—activities were part of the daily routine of Provine students.

"Please, buy your Aries!" pleads Donna Dickson as Scarlet Gray in the Aries sales kick-off program, "Scarlet Gray and the Seven Dwarfs Minus Two."

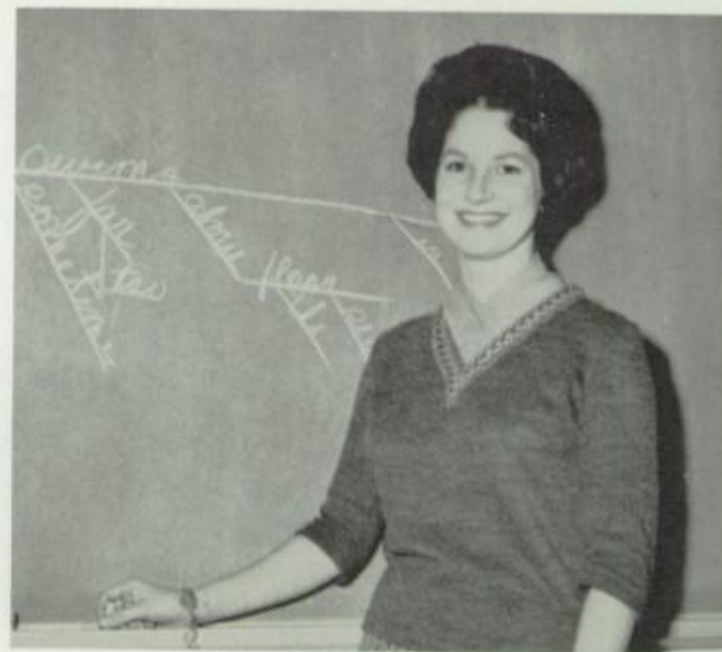

Homeroom president Gerald White informs his homeroom of important events discussed in the weekly Student Council reports.

"R-r-r-ring!" goes the bell, and a tidal wave of students surges into the halls for the three-minute race to the next class.

Perfecting a skill as old as time itself, future potters Lynda Berry, Ulrich Stachel, and Sammy Tucker work in the art room.

Having joined the Provine faculty in mid-year, English teacher Mrs. Martha Ball completes the diagramming of a sentence for her class.

"Double, double toil and trouble, fire burn and cauldron bubble!" shriek witches Janie Coring, Colita Jones, Sandra Harris, and Chris Roberts as they brew their concoction in a senior English class.

Classes at Provine Present Excitingly Varied Panorama.

Squeamish girls meticulously dissecting a rana pipiens in biology, the resounding clash of Macbeth's sword against Macduff's shield in English class, and an entire Latin class declining "hic, haec, hoc" so that it sounded like a chorus hiccuping in unison—these and other sights and sounds marked Provine's classes as quite distinctive and added the spice of variety to school days.

"The point formed by the intersection of lines is the center of the circumscribed circle around the regular hexagon," explains Jasper Neel to his plane geometry class.

"Buenos días," comes from the tape recorder as these Spanish students, Elizabeth Price, Robert Sheppard, and Nina Johnson, learn to pronounce Spanish correctly.

Organizations Accent Extracurricular Life.

Clubs for outdoor sportsmen, clubs for homemakers, nurses, and teachers of the future, clubs for the athletically inclined, and clubs for students interested in a specific subject—these organizations and many more afforded Provine students the opportunity to broaden their skills and interests in their favorite hobbies or future occupations. Some of the clubs offered field trips, guest speakers, and films to supplement the regular activities sponsored by the club.

"Don't stick yourself," cautions Paulette Warren as she and Jimmie Purser distribute National Honor Society pins to Candice Woodward, Jerry Chase, Jackson Johnson, and Joe Posey.

Sponsored by Mr. Long, the Jackson Astronomy Club numbered these Provinites among its members, First row: Howard Vickers, Richard Levenson, Mr. Long, Bruce Davis, Victor Miller; Second row: Ronnie Fleming, Glenn Brown, Jim Farris, Billy Vallas, Don Cochran.

"Sing, slaves, or no one will ever buy you," Steve Sanders warns four first-year Latin students at the annual JCL slave auction. Comprising the quartet are Larry Watkins, Alton Smith, Lynn Bradshaw, and Freddie Roberts.

"Who'll be our first victim?" wonder Safety Council members Mike Hataway and Everett Ferguson as they stock their homeroom safety kits.

Numerous Conventions Lure Ram Delegates.

Chosen as representatives to the Hinds-Rankin County Red Cross Council were Laura Justice, Sherry Brown, Ronny Shaffer, and Larry Copeland.

Winning the chariot race at the National JCL Convention were Provine "fillies," Winnie Welch, Jeanne Burnet, Virginia Brown, and Paulette Warren. Provine delegates won two first places and a third place to dominate the Olympic Games.

Disciples of Einstein, Eddie Strahan and Don Cochran, prepare to blow up the chemistry lab with a few tricks they learned at the summer science camp held at Mississippi State University.

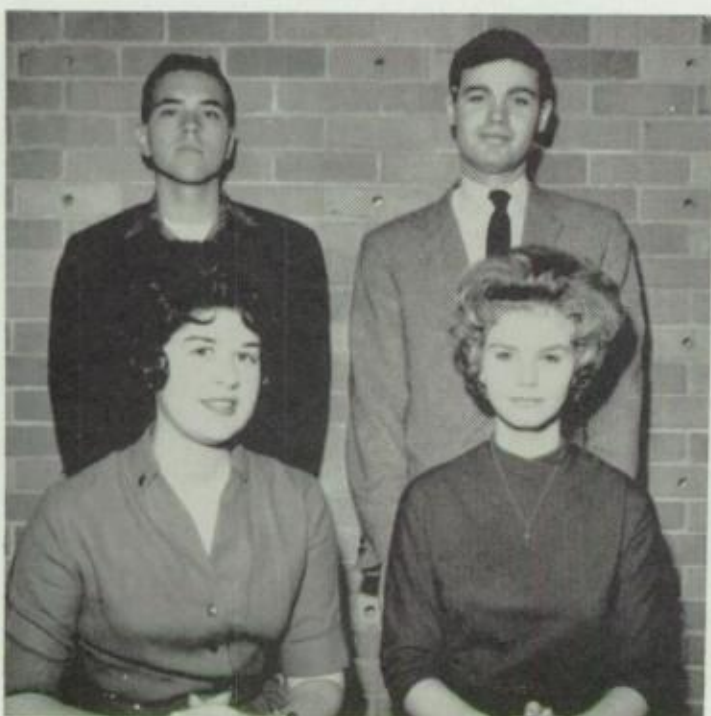

Representing Provine at the press conference sponsored by the local newspapers were Rambler staff members, Sherry Monk, Lynn Simms, Jeanne Burnet, Louisa Woods, Kitty Perry, Sammy Tucker, Milton Mizell and Sonny Ashley.

Winning awards at the JCL convention, learning new techniques of annual production at the Ole Miss Press Conference, studying publication methods at the National Scholastic Press Conference in Chicago, Provine students broaden their scope of knowledge.

Discussing ideas and meeting other students were main factors of the local press conference, Intra-City Safety Council, and Hinds-Rankin County Red Cross Council.

Attending the district Safety Council at Wesson were, first row: Denise Tonkel, Ann Smith, Carolyn Waddle, Ann Gambrell; second row: Ronny Shaffer, Earl Phillips, Benton Ballard, Leonard Vernamonti, Joe Dove.

Denise Tonkel, Ann Gambrell, McCoy Hamilton, and Ronny Shaffer were Provine's delegates to the Intra-City Safety Council.

During the Thanksgiving holidays, National Scholastic Press Association Convention delegates, Louisa Woods, Ronny Shaffer, Margaret Riley, Tommy Naef, Martha Holliday, and Larry Copeland, ate their turkey dinners in Chicago, where they learned of the latest trends in journalism.

Watching the Rams edge Brookhaven 19 to 14 is the 1962 Homecoming court: sophomore maid Pat Horne and escort Jimmy Kenney, senior maid Sandra Harris and escort James Peden, Queen Anna Dennery and escort Steve Sanders, senior maid Judy Polk and escort Larry Watkins, and junior maid Carolyn Hagerman and escort Skippy Bilbro.

Regal Homecoming Climaxes Fall Activities

Reflecting the splendor and dignity of Homecoming, senior maid Judy Polk, escorted by Larry Watkins, passes before the crowd.

Senior maid Sandra Harris and escort James Peden glide majestically into position for the coronation ceremonies.

Excited students put final touches on cars decorated for the Homecoming court.

As the coronation ceremonies continue, Queen Anna Denery smiles radiantly through tears of happiness.

As Parade, Coronation, Dance Highlight Day.

"Who will be crowned football queen?" was the most provocative question during Homecoming week.

A colorful parade down Capitol Street added to the suspense as the Homecoming maids were presented with their escorts. Lifting spirits even higher, the Provine Band provided the music while carloads of exuberant students participated.

In the pre-game ceremony the queen's identity was revealed, and the entire court reigned over the fast-moving game in which Provine defeated Brookhaven. As a climax to the evening, students danced to the music of Jules Barlow in the King Edward Convention Hall.

Carolyn Hagerman, junior maid, and escort Skippy Bilbro walk proudly across the field in the pre-game ceremonies.

Pep Rallies, Concentration Day Boost Spirit.

"Beat Murrah!" yell seniors Colita Jones, Bill Watkins, Patsy Screws, Glenda Boteler, and Libby Byers at the pre-game pom-pom party held in the gym.

Exuberant cheers, followed by an encouraging talk from the coaches, were usually a trademark of Provine's pep rallies. Posters and pep ribbons also prepared Rams for the battles with their foes.

In preparation for the long-anticipated game with Murrah, Provine students observed a Concentration Day. This was designed to let the students pool all their powers of concentration into one thought—"Beat Murrah!" Pupils were positively prohibited from uttering a word during the day, but immediately after school they released their pent-up energies at a vigorous pep rally.

"All for Provine, stand up and holler!" bellow joyous Rams during a pom-pom party pep rally.

President, Jimmy Reynolds, and Vice-President, Jim Martin, look at their prize-winning poster made by the members of Mrs. McPhail's homeroom.

A forlorn Dianne Sutherland walks off the field after Provine lost to Murrah in the City-Championship game.

Christmas, Snowfall Crown Mid-Year Activities.

Provine celebrated Christmas with two dances, a band concert and serenade, and sixth period parties in the individual homerooms.

After only four days back in school students were thrilled to see a heavy snowfall begin around noon on January 9. To their joy the snow halted buses and forced the schools to close for three days. Temperatures dropped to zero, pipes froze and cars stalled. Amid all the calamity and chaos there were snow parties, snowball fights and snowmen.

Decorating Provine for the Yuletide Season, Proctor places in the front hall a wreath that he made.

Entertaining homeroom 106 with a rousing rendition of "Jingle Bells," Mr. Jones and his band provide music for the homeroom Christmas party.

Simultaneously hurling their snowballs at Pam Hiatt and Sue Anderson, Jimmy Gentry and Carolyn Mozingo enjoy the rare snowfall.

Doing last-minute Christmas shopping? Attempting a new type of weight lifting? No, it's Aries editor James Peden moving a manakin during the taking of pictures for the annual's Personality Section over the Christmas holidays.

Class Capers Stimulates Competitive Spirit.

The big moment—Junior class President Walter Dowdle, fresh out of Morgan's Mine, accepts the trophy awarded for the best skit and receives the congratulations of Mr. France.

With an air of unbearable tension, great expectations, and excitement galore, three hopeful classes and an audience of around a thousand persons eagerly awaited the judges' decision concerning the winning of the 1962 Class Capers.

Through the deadly silent auditorium came the magical words from Mr. France, "Will Walter Dowdle, junior class president, please come forward to accept the skit trophy." The juniors amassed the greatest number of points for their skit as rated by six judges on the Thursday and Friday night performances.

Copping awards in ticket sales, which was an important part of the competition, were the sophomores, who won the trophy for the most money turned in, and the seniors, who received the trophy for the most per capita sales.

"Oh, you shouldn't have!" exclaims senior sponsor, Mrs. McPhail, as she receives an orchid from an excited group of seniors before the last night of Class Capers.

"Drags" Mike Warren and Mary Lou Stanley seem to have a weight problem as they carry the books of "Super Salesmen" Mike Wade and Patsy Flowers. The "Super Salesmen" won in Class Capers ticket sales competition over the "Drags."

"Everything's Coming Up Roses" sing chorus members, Billie Lee Horne, Kitty Perry, Pat McMaster, Joey Kirkland, Wayne Wansley, and David Collins in the presentation of the junior class skit.

Choreography plays an important part in the sophomore skit, as evidenced by the convincing dancing performance by Sondra Carlson, Betty Potter, Clara Lee Smith, Leslie Cobb, Peggy Redd, Judy Benson, and Evelyn Sims.

Having a hard time, isn't he? The recipient of all this attention is the famed Elliot Guess, and around him are some of his cohorts (and cohortesses). Left to right, they are Mary Lou Stanley, Ken Dreher, Gloria Lowe, Earl Phillips, and Joanne Slay.

Sophs Present 'Untouchable Togas.'

"Seesaw is dead. Poor Seesaw is dead," tolled the solemn voices of mourning slaves in the sophomore Class Capers production of "The Untouchable Togas."

Around the sudden death of G. Jules Seesaw centered one of the thickest murder plots in history. At Seesaw's death Elliot Guess and the Untouchable Togas were called upon to solve the mystery. From the beginning Elliot, who always got his man, thought that Cassius Capone and Brute had plotted against G. Jules. At the termination of the play, however, it was revealed that the sudden demise of Mr. Seesaw was caused by an overdose of poisoned spaghetti administered by the soothsayer.

The culmination of hard work and eager anticipation was the winning of the trophy for most tickets sold.

Proudly representing the sophomore class, Jimmy Kenney, class president, accepts the trophy for the most tickets sold.

As Seesaw lies prostrate and the Roman citizens mourn, soothsayer Bill Roper reiterates his warning to "Beware the Ides of March."

Patrons of "Big Daddy's" Gladiator Gym take a break from their strenuous workouts to harmonize a chorus of "There is nothing like a Game." Blending their melodious voices are Ricky Barrett, Jerry Little, Steve Sanders, Sam Glisson, Ross Hart, and Johnny McCallum.

"He gives me fever!" sings the Cajun Queen Empress Kilpatrick of her sweetheart, Small Sad Sam.

Playing the part of the Stooges, Bobby Beasley, Lynn Bradshaw, and David Earl Suttle march comically across the stage.

Complaining of the perils of mining, Bill May, as Small Sad Sam, mournfully sings "Sixteen Tons."

Juniors Capture Skit Trophy.

"Small Sad Sam," the skit produced by the junior class, won the first-place trophy for the best skit presented. Most of the action took place in "Morgan's Coal Mine," where a stage setting complete with a coal car and hard-working miners served as a background for this episode from the life of Small Sad Sam.

After the song, "Sixteen Tons," by Sam, or Bill May, the miners performed a dance in the eerie atmosphere of the coal mine. Then came the cave-in, with Sam sacrificing himself to save the other miners. With the arrival of the Cajun Queen, played by Empress Kilpatrick, who revived Sam with a song and a kiss, Sam's worries seemed to be over. But alas, his happiness was short-lived. A sweet old lady with a gun shot the hero. Why? Because he had killed her rooster.

Barbara Scafidel, portraying the Old Woman, avenges the death of her rooster by fatally shooting, to the horror of the Cajun Queen and the miners, Small Sad Sam.

Seniors Win Praise With Colorful Jungle Play.

"You will follow my orders explicitly!" screams Russ Grant to Private Hampy Singleton, trying to conceal the latest edition of Mad magazine.

"I call my book Head-shrinking for Fun and Profit," quips cannibal Billy Ball to cohort Garland Vaughn as the two prepare for the Friday performance.

"Banzai, Banzai!" shouts Japanese soldier Jimmy Toombs, who still hasn't surrendered, to G.I.'s Charles Rains and Wayne Fields.

Preparing a succulent stew of Charlie Sullivan, headhunting natives Bob Fulton, Sammy Tucker, Joe Wilson, and Howard Rainey exhibit their culinary skills.

Cannibalistic aborigines complete with native attire and dialect, American soldiers stationed in the tropical wilds, a group of brave USO entertainers journeying through the perilous jungle—this bewildering set of circumstances formed the background for the senior class skit.

Through the efforts of many class members, this "Jones original" was produced, including an actual army jeep, Shinook the Ape Man, and a tribal dance (the twist). The plot was climaxed by a rousing stanza of "God Bless America" featuring an army band and a chorus of the entire cast.

Winning praise for its performance, the Provine Concert Choir sings at the First Federal Awards Banquet, televised over the entire Mid-South.

Noteworthy Events Illuminate Provine's Year.

Spring was the season marked by varied activities: the day the seniors were measured for caps and gowns, an event that first sent memories scurrying back over three years at Provine; the Aries staff party in the new office; and conventions and field trips for many clubs and organizations, such as the Mu Alpha Theta trip to New Orleans.

An event pointing up the proficiency achieved during the year was the invitation extended to the choir to appear on a regional television program, the annual "Missie" awards show.

Parties and dances emphasized to seniors that they were nearing the close of their high school days.

Reflecting the dignity of the senior class, Mary Margaret Paul, Chris Roberts, Louisa Woods, Stella Marshall, Winnie Welch, Nancy Fagan, P. K. Anderson, and Bennie Lou Satterwhite enjoy the first tea of the spring.

"Good grief, Earle, you've got the big head," exclaims Carol Hodges to Earle Willoughby as she measures him for his cap and gown.

Enjoying a belated housewarming for their new office and celebrating the last major deadline, members of the Aries staff take time off to pose for a picture before resuming their festivities.

"You're twenty minutes late!" moans John McMillan as he discovers that Bennie Lou Satterwhite, as do all girls, takes forever to dress for a senior dance.

Planning the Mu Alpha Theta's senior trip to New Orleans, Charles Wilkinson, Sonny Ashley, Jimmie Purser, Mrs. Latta, Hy Carter, and Chris Roberts dream of the romantic French Quarter, Lake Ponchatrain, and the Mississippi River.

Provinites Aid Classmates in Various Capacities.

Students and parents gave their time to serve Provine in special areas.

In the office students distributed and collected absentee lists and carried notes.

In the library, assistants stacked books on the shelves and worked at the check-out desks.

Bookstore workers helped by selling a myriad of necessary supplies to students.

PTA leaders assisted home-school relations and aided in many projects.

Running errands, delivering notes, checking absentee reports—these are among the duties of office assistants Carol Hodges, Rose Herrod, Janice Lockley, and Betty Carlisle.

Carefully perusing library material, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Holmes, co-presidents of Provine's PTA, study the effects of modern-day literature on the life of Provine's students.

Greeting students with a cheerful "Good morning" and supplying them with paper, pencils, rulers, and other school supplies, are bookstore workers Nicky Cirlot, Linda Farmer, Benton Ballard, Nancy White, and Billy Webb.

Faculty and Students Cop Numerous Awards.

Many students brought special honors to themselves and Provine by excelling in music, journalism, public speaking, and in competition for scholarships.

Teachers also earned honors in literary and scholastic fields.

These achievements further proved the versatility of both pupils and instructors.

Sophomore Conrad Smith placed first in the oratorical contest sponsored by the American Legion.

Senior Sonny Ashley was one of one thousand finalists in the nation-wide General Motors Scholarship Program.

Mr. Vinson, Rambler advisor, served as the 1962 president of the Mississippi Scholastic Press Association.

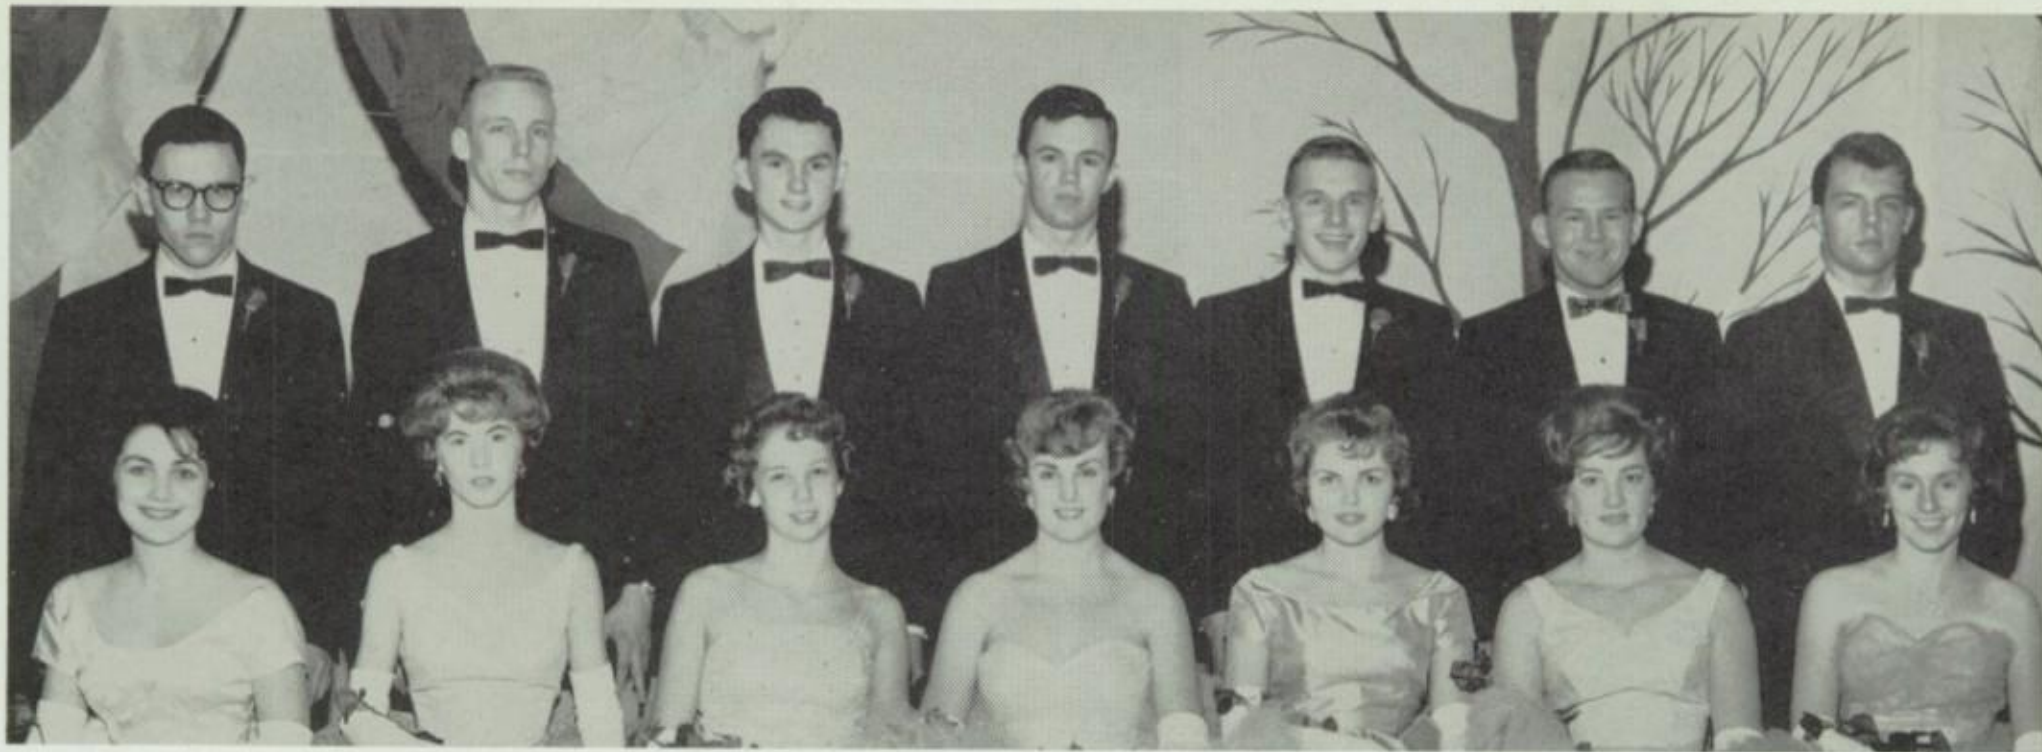

Mr. Burnside, mathematics instructor, received a Merit Fellowship from the Shell Oil Company to do research at Cornell University during the summer.

Senior honorees. Left to right: Anna Dennerly and Jimmie Purser, Most Dignified; Jeanne Burnet and Charles Wilkinson, Most Outstanding; Chris Roberts and James Peden, Most Likely to Succeed; Sandra Harris and Dusty Rhodes, Most Admired; Mary Ann Van Devender and David Ingebretson, Most Dependable; Libby Byers and Alton Smith, Most Considerate; and Sherry Monk and Jimmy Reynolds, Friendliest.

'Who's Who' Introduces Favorite Personalities.

In splendor reminiscent of the days of bold knights and beautiful maidens, the Rambler presented its annual extravaganza, Provine's "Who's Who Program" on March 6. With the stage representing Camelot, King Arthur's legendary city, the royalty of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes was presented to a capacity audience.

In addition to a host of local talent, the production was highlighted by the appearance of two special guests—Linda Lackey, 1961 Maid of Cotton, and Pat Chadwick, Provine alumna and 1961 Miss Jackson.

Senior honorees. Left to right: Janie Coring and Tommy Tucker, Best Natured; Lynn Simms and Joe Malone, Most Feminine and Most Masculine; Donna Dickson and Steve Sanders, Most School Spirit; Alice Criswell and Mike Grogan, Wittiest; Carolyn Mazingo and Charlie Sullivan, Most Optimistic; Pam Hiatt and Bob Orndorff, Most Talented; Sue Russell and Nicky Cirlot, Best Dressed; and Lynda Berry and Sammy Tucker, Most Creative.

Provine Produces Rodgers and Hammerstein Hit.

"Don't be afraid," smiles Linda Low, Nanette Workman, to Wang Ta, Jim Martin, as the pair rehearse a scene from Flower Drum Song.

"A hundred million miracles," sing Flower Drum Song characters David Boyd, Wang Chi Yang; Gundy McKeithen, Liu Ma; Anna Dennery, Mei Li; Pat Dungan, Madam Liang; and Bob Orndorff, Doctor Li.

Skillfully designed sets, oriental props, dyed hair, and carefully-prepared characterizations were all fitted together for the three-night run of Flower Drum Song.

Written by Rodgers and Hammerstein, the hit musical depicts the Chinese-American life in San Francisco's famed Chinatown.

Carrying out a Chinese motif, the vivid oriental scenery was done in abstract with unique lighting effects complementing it.

Accompanied by exotic dances and flashy show tunes, the production was fun for both participants and audience.

To the dismay of Wang Chi Yang, David Boyd, Frankie Wing, Sonny Jenkins, announces the betrothal of Linda Low, Nanette Workman, to Wang Ta.

"I would love to go with you." hints Helen Chao, Nancy Sutherland, as Wang Ta, Jim Martin, tries to make a quick exit.

'Drum Song' Climaxes Dramatic Achievement.

Expressing his chagrin is Sammy Fong, Charlie Sullivan, as Dr. and Madam Fong, Danny Lee and Kitty Perry, present Mei Li, Anna Dennery, whom they have chosen as his picture bride.

Student director Melissa Darnell and stage manager Nicky Cirlot inspect some of the scenery for the production.

Evaluation Emphasizes Continual Improvement.

Explaining the Evaluation to Homeroom 106, Student Council member Alton Smith discusses Provine's philosophy and objectives.

Typing for the evaluators were these girls: seated, Martha Holliday and Laura Criscoe; standing, Julie Revels, Carolyn Mozingo, Jerry Porter, Janice Lockley, Paulette Warren, Barbara Scafidel, Pat Dungan, Carol Boswell, Elizabeth Price, and Margaret Brown (not shown).

"H-m-m-m, good!" smacks Coach Morgan during the banquet honoring the evaluators.

Using the Aries room as Evaluation headquarters are Dr. S. A. Moorhead, University of Mississippi; Mr. A. P. Bennett, State Department of Education; Miss Eugenia Summer, MSCW; and Mrs. Ada Sumrall, Mississippi College.

Guiding Provine's self-evaluation were the members of the steering committee: Mr. France, chairman; Mr. Buckley; Miss Bissland, co-chairman; Mr. England; and Miss Hutchison.

Dr. J. W. Lee, co-ordinator of Provine's evaluation, addresses the faculty and the evaluators at the get-acquainted banquet.

To determine the effectiveness of Provine according to evaluative criteria set up for high schools, faculty and students participated in a year-long study. Such an evaluation is required by the Southern Association of High Schools and Colleges for accreditation.

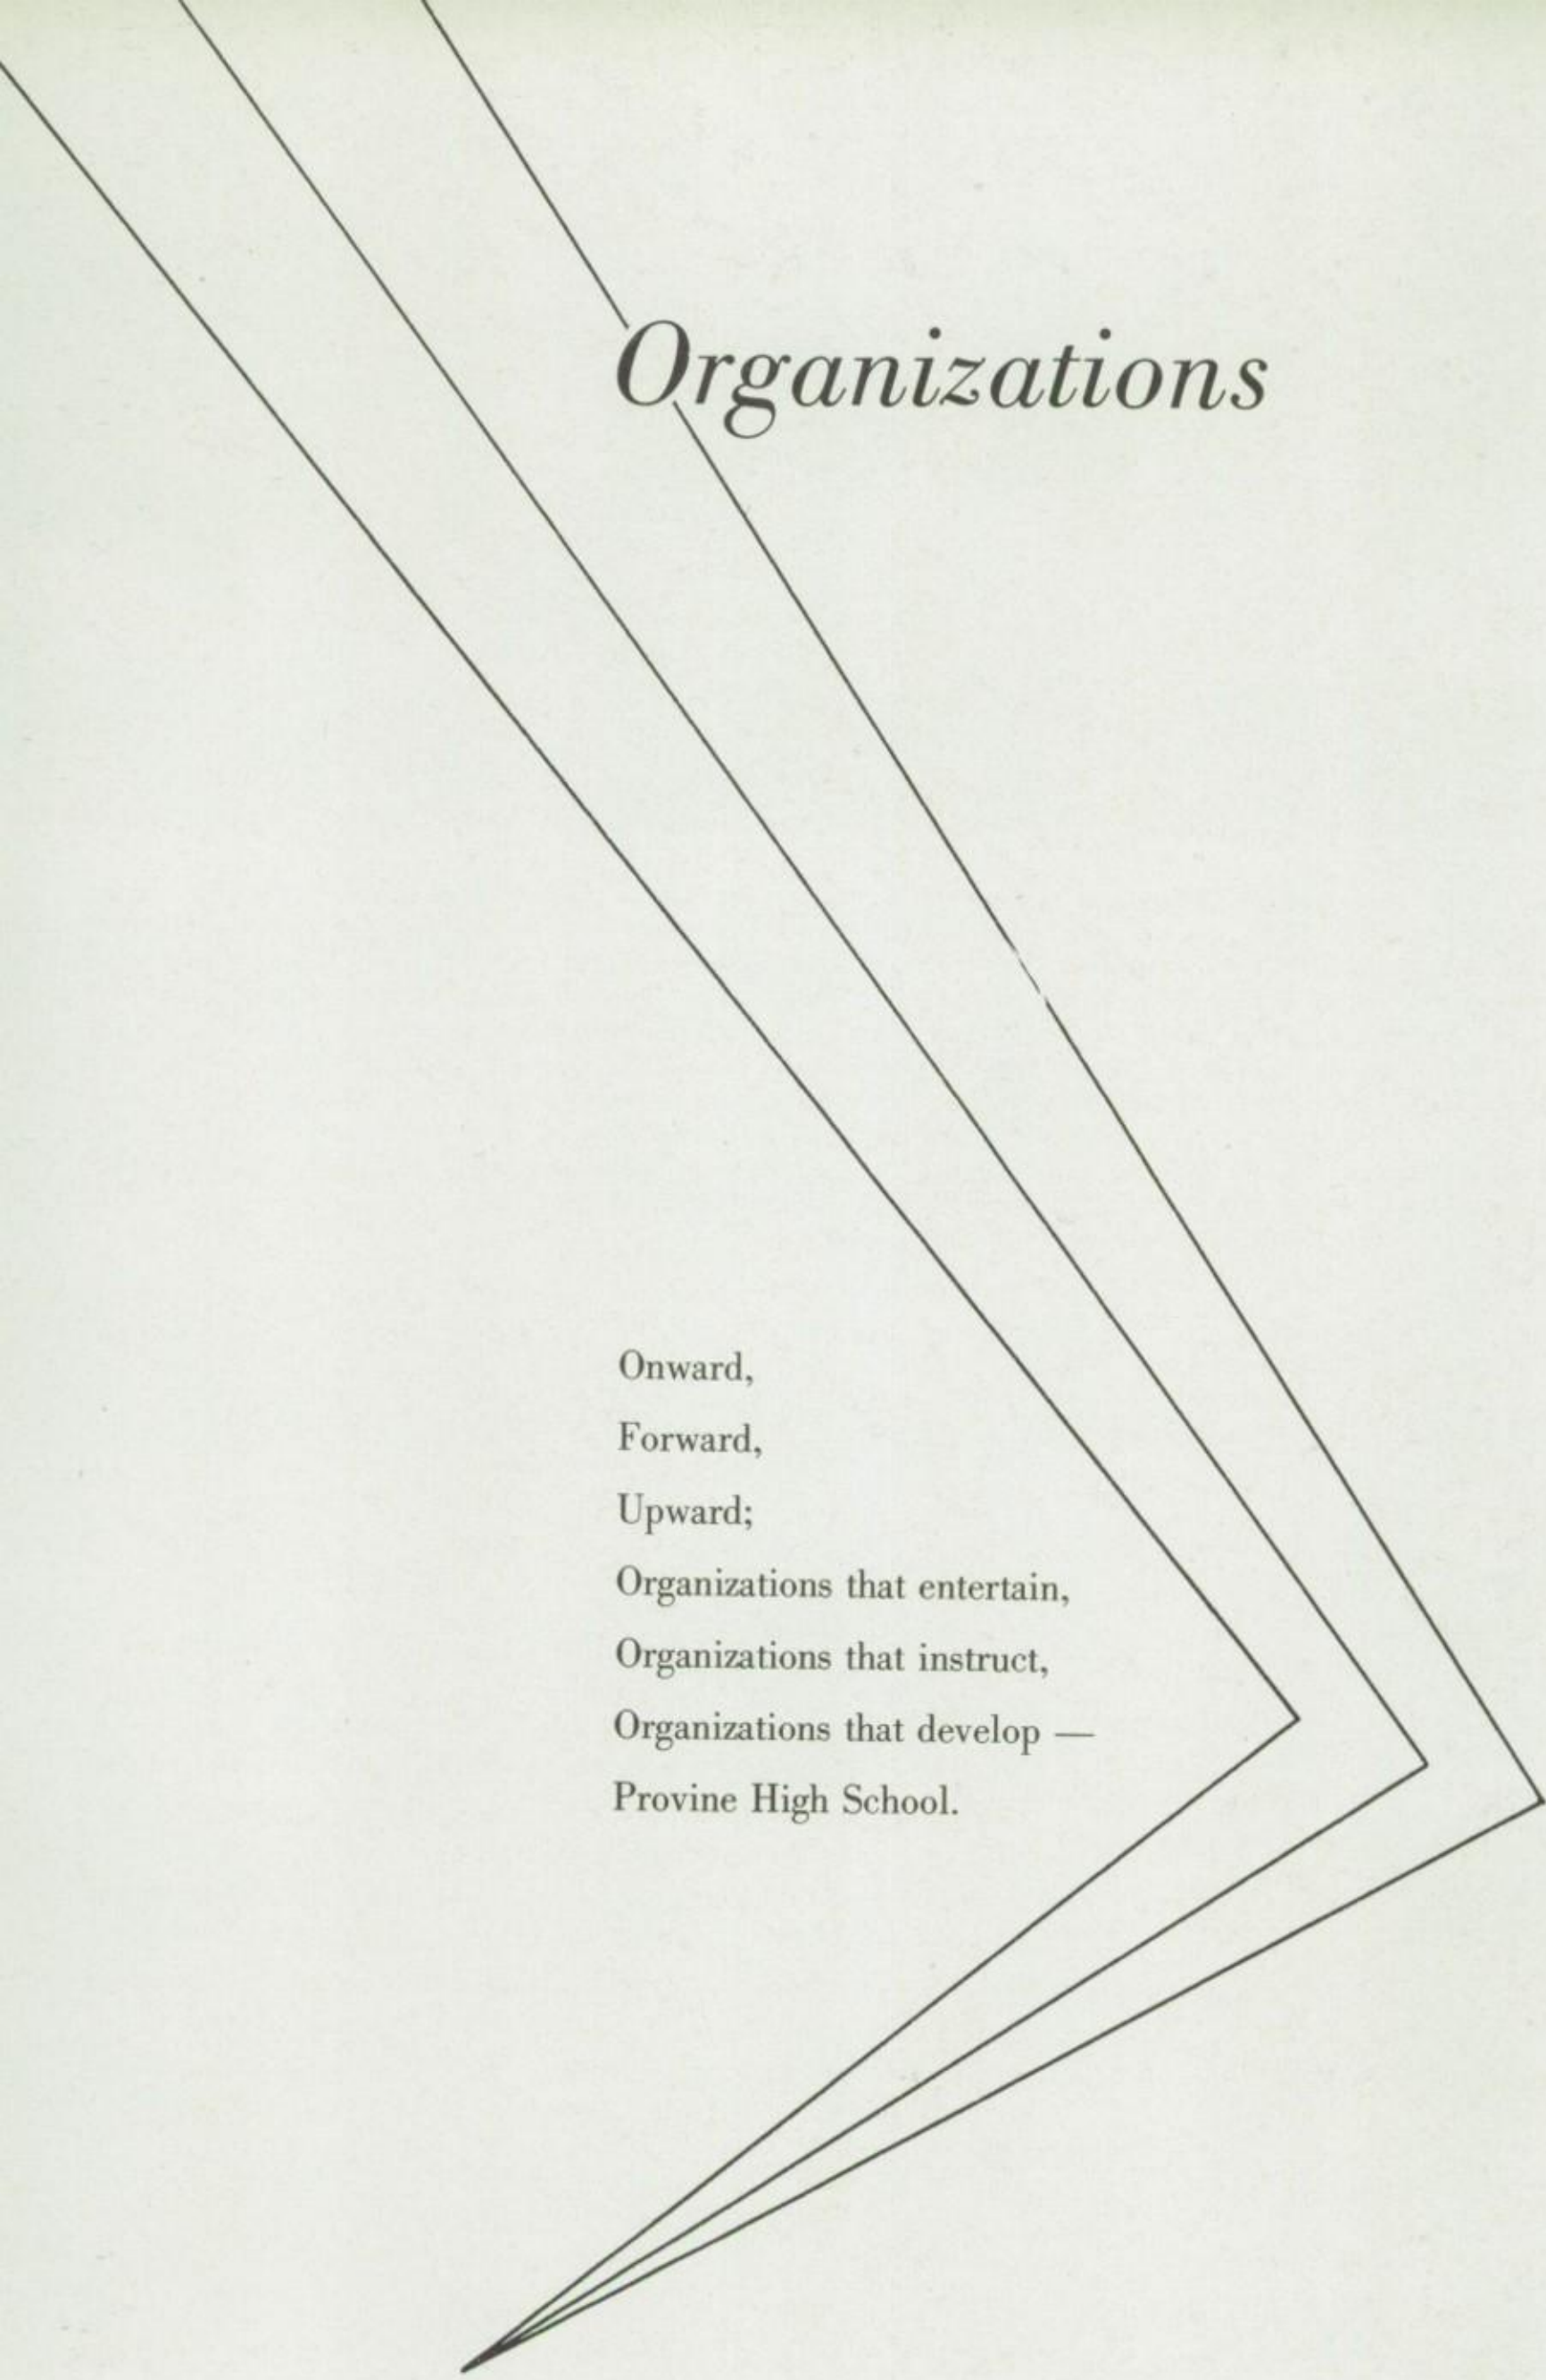

First, the entire faculty worked on a thorough self-evaluation of every phase of school life at Provine. Next, a group of evaluators—composed of high school teachers, college professors, officials from the State Department of Education, and others—spent three days, February 26-29, at the school observing classes and studying the operation of the school to check the faculty's self-evaluation.

The group compiled a report with commendations for many phases of the school's program and with recommendations for improvements in some areas.

Answering queries on the student activity program for evaluators Miss Virginia Hoogenakker and Mr. John Christmas, are, clockwise, Nicky Cirlot, David Boyd, Earle Willoughby, Beth Ewing, Jimmie Purser, and Deenie Assaf.

Provine High School.

Provine Student Council. First row: Libby Byers, senior class representative; Sherry Monk, student body chaplain; Mr. Lundquist, sponsor; Earle Willoughby, student body vice-president; Charles Wilkinson, student body president; Nicky Cirlot, student body secretary-treasurer; Jeanne Burnet, student body reporter; Sue Anderson, senior class representative; Margaret Brown, junior class secretary-treasurer; Second row: James Peden, editor of the Aries; Pam Hiatt, senior class reporter; Sherron Miller, sophomore class representative; Pat Horne, sophomore class reporter; Lynn Simms, senior class secretary-treasurer; Deenie Assaf, sophomore class representative; Linda Young, junior class reporter; Jane Roberson, junior class representative; Barbara Embry, junior class representative; Skippy Bilbro, junior class representative; Third row: Walter Dowdle, junior class vice-president; Bobby Puckett, junior class president; Jim Martin, senior class representative; Jimmy Reynolds, senior class representative; Larry Copeland, Red Cross Council Chairman; Alton Smith, senior class representative; Jimmy Kenney, sophomore class president; Mike Lachina, sophomore class vice-president; Johnny McCallum, sophomore class secretary-treasurer; Bennett Price, junior class representative; Ronny Shaffer, Junior Red Cross chairman; Steve Sanders, senior class president.

Ram Student Council Spotlights Myriad Events.

Distributing a summary to the homerooms each week to inform all students of the Student Council's activities and sponsoring the Pledge of Allegiance with the daily devotionals were two new features of the Student Council this year.

Planning the morning devotionals, heading all Homecoming activities, conducting student elections, sponsoring Class Capers, staffing the school supply store, and selling cokes at basketball games were other duties which the Council assumed.

The Council met twice weekly, to discuss school functions, activities, and student body problems.

Provine's student body chose Charles Wilkinson president for 61-62, to serve in leading Provine and its students to greater heights.

Advanced Science Club Emphasizes Medicine.

Watching interesting film strips, listening to noted speakers, hearing talks on physical therapy and various other topics, such as liquid nitrogen, were highlights of the year for members of the Advanced Science Club.

The club is composed of juniors and seniors who have studied biology and are interested in the newest scientific developments.

Julie Revels, vice-president of the Advanced Science Club, presents a talk concerning diseases of the lungs.

Athletic Club Scientifically Analyzes Sports.

Reviewing films of previous games, boys of the Athletic Club endeavored to master the tactics of various sports. Club members, who were required to have a letter in one or more sports, participated in discussions on improvement of their athletic ability.

Athletic Club. First row: Nicky Cirlot, Jim Martin, Sidney Craft, James Tullos, Don Felts, Paul Lipscomb, Joe Malone, Alton Smith, Jimmy Reynolds, Lynn Bradshaw, John L. 'Aries' Records Year's Outstanding Events.

Difficulties with a broken camera, a search of suitable backgrounds for the Personality Section, and a record breaking snow storm which enforced three emergency holidays were challenges confronting the 1962 Aries staff in meeting deadlines.

Summer meetings acquainted members with some techniques of yearbook construction learned at the Ole Miss Press Conference.

The staff devoted sixth periods, sometimes whole afternoons, and even holidays to production.

With ever present notebook in hand, Miss Hutchison, Aries sponsor, prepares to check layouts and copy.

Editor James Peden and assistant editors Melissa Darnell and Mary Ann Van Devender inspect layout sheets of 1962 Aries.

Typists Bennie Lou Satterwhite and Susan Lambright look over copy. Preparing financial reports are business manager, David Ingebretsen; assistant business manager, Ronnie Shaffer; and sales manager, Victor McDearman.

Revision editors, Julie Revels and Chris Roberts, check copy submitted by senior literary editors, Jess White and Sue Anderson, and junior literary editors, David Boyd and Barbara Embry.

Dear John, Best wishes to a cute guy with a great personality and a tremendous musical ability - Keep that sax going. Good Luck Jim

Estimating proportions of pictures to lay out are assistant layout editor, Stella Marshall; layout editor, Gundy McKeithen; junior layout editor, Camille Campbell, as artist Betsy Upchurch looks on.

Trying to decide what band festival the Provine Marching Band will attend are officers Jess White, lieutenant; John Carr, captain; Mike Cottingham, librarian; and Vagn Hansen, sergeant.

Mr. Jones, versatile and able conductor, has directed many award winning Provine bands.

Parades, clinics, football half-time shows, and public dedications—these were the activities undertaken by the Provine High School Band under the direction of Mr. Jack Jones.

Band members attended Band Day at Mississippi College in Clinton, presented a Christmas Festival in conjunction with the Provine Choir, marched in the annual Christmas Parade, and marched in Provine's 1961 Homecoming Parade. The band competed in the State Band Contest in Jackson on April 7. May 10-13 was the time set aside for the band's annual trip, this year to the Cotton Carnival in Memphis.

Band Takes Lead in Boosting Provine Spirit.

At the game in Hattiesburg, "scab band" members Jess White, Manley Biggers, Jerry Chase, Grover Cleveland, Larry Tedford, Billy Robertson, Henry Evans, and Vagn Hansen provide a hilarious halftime show and the music for the Rams' 52-0 rout of the Tigers.

Debate Club Gives Training in Public Speaking.

Collecting data for their negative and affirmative sides of the question are debaters Russ Grant, Conrad Smith, Ronald Goodbread, and Howard Rainey.

Participating in the Ole Miss debate workshop was a highlight of the year for members of the Debate Club. They also attended the district and over-all debate in February and later took part in the practice debate, which was with the Intra-Club and Murrah.

On the question for 1962, "Resolved: The Federal Government should guarantee a chance for higher education to qualified high school graduates," debaters spent many long hours in library research.

Ensemble Club Entertains With Rousing Songs.

Sixteen members of the Provine Choir formed a new club this year to present programs when it was impractical for the whole choir to perform. The group, consisting of girls only, sang at small club meetings and for small groups.

Future Homemakers of America. First row: Ann Quates, Pam Hiatt, social chairman; Stella Marshall, program chairman; Jeanie Farris, treasurer; Betty Ann Dukes, vice-president; Linda Jacks, president; Patsy Muse, secretary; Sarah Muse, song-leader; Jo Ann Gardner, parliamentarian; Beth Griffin, historian; Sue Anderson, group captain; Mrs. Hinton, sponsor; Second row: Carol Hodges, Linda Ashworth, Vera Leggett, Carole Guraedy, Shirley Clontz, Dorothy Lifer, Royce Ann Hall, Alice Crampton, Charlotte Brown, Becky Howard, Martha Hunter; Third row: Dianne Denham, Diane Dearing, Margaret Jackson, Lila Hamilton, Carla Chapman, Mary Elizabeth Cofer, Ann Drummond, Mary Edith Hales, Ann Drane, Mary Lou Jenkins, Judy Bates.

FHA Provides Invaluable Training for Girls.

Noticed the flower arrangements in the cafeteria? They were the work of the FHA. Although the main goal of the club is to improve personal, family, and community living, this group has many related activities.

The sale of peanut brittle financed a trip to the Natchez Pilgrimage, where the members observed parts of the historic South. The club also participated in the state meeting at MSCW and the sub-district convention at Mississippi College.

Using zesty punch and colorful balloons, FHA members Carol Hodges, Patsy Muse, Sue Anderson, Dot Repman, and Stella Marshall prepare a party for children stricken with cerebral palsy.

Future Nurses Develop Medical Techniques.

"New Orleans, here we come" was the cry of the Future Nurses as they boarded the bus for the New Orleans' hospitals. The club members spent an interesting and educational day as they toured, observing modern instruments and techniques used in hospitals. Besides out-of-town trips, this group toured many local hospitals. Guest speakers gave the club additional information on many aspects of nursing and related fields.

"Perhaps we could try the University Hospital," suggests Jane Vinson as she, Laura Justice, Pat Dungan, and Virginia Brown, officers of the Future Nurses' Club, plan the next program.

Future Teachers Study Education Methods.

Joining the Future Nurses, Future Homemakers, and other career groups at Provine was the Future Teachers' Club, composed of students interested in the teaching profession. Plans included a study of the preparation and qualifications of teachers, and an analysis of their duties and responsibilities.

Learning to operate a mimeograph machine, a necessary skill in teaching, are future teachers, Nancy Fagan and Linda Letwinger. Mr. Burnside, the sponsor, demonstrates.

Golf Club Develops Putting and Driving Skills.

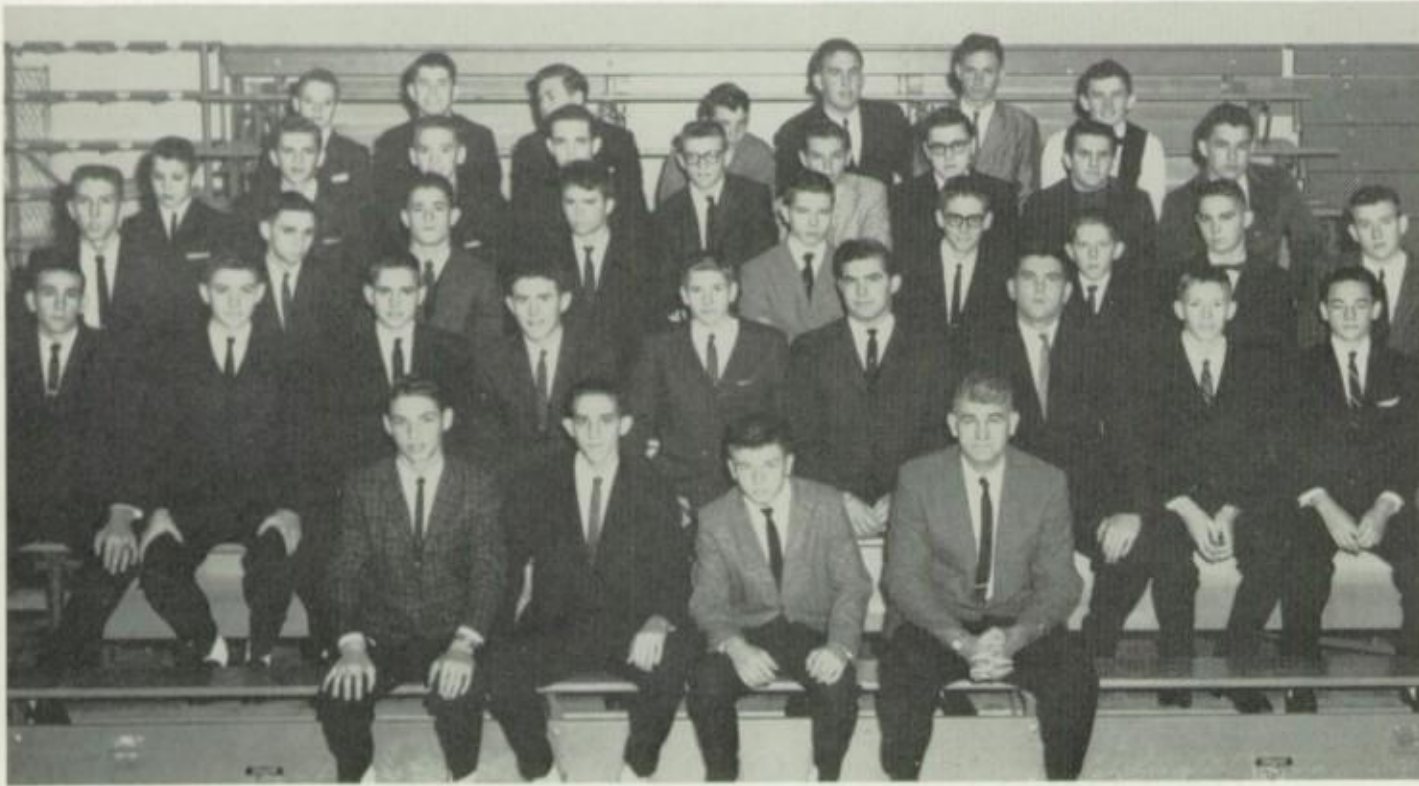

"Watch your stance" were familiar words spoken by Chief Taylor to members of the Golf Club. The club promoted interest in golf while learning the fundamentals of the game. The golf team was chosen from the best players, and this group made trips to golf tournaments.

The club held practice sessions whenever possible and took films of each player on the course. The sponsor showed these films to the other members of the club for analysis and corrective criticism.

Gym Club Contributes to School's Fitness.

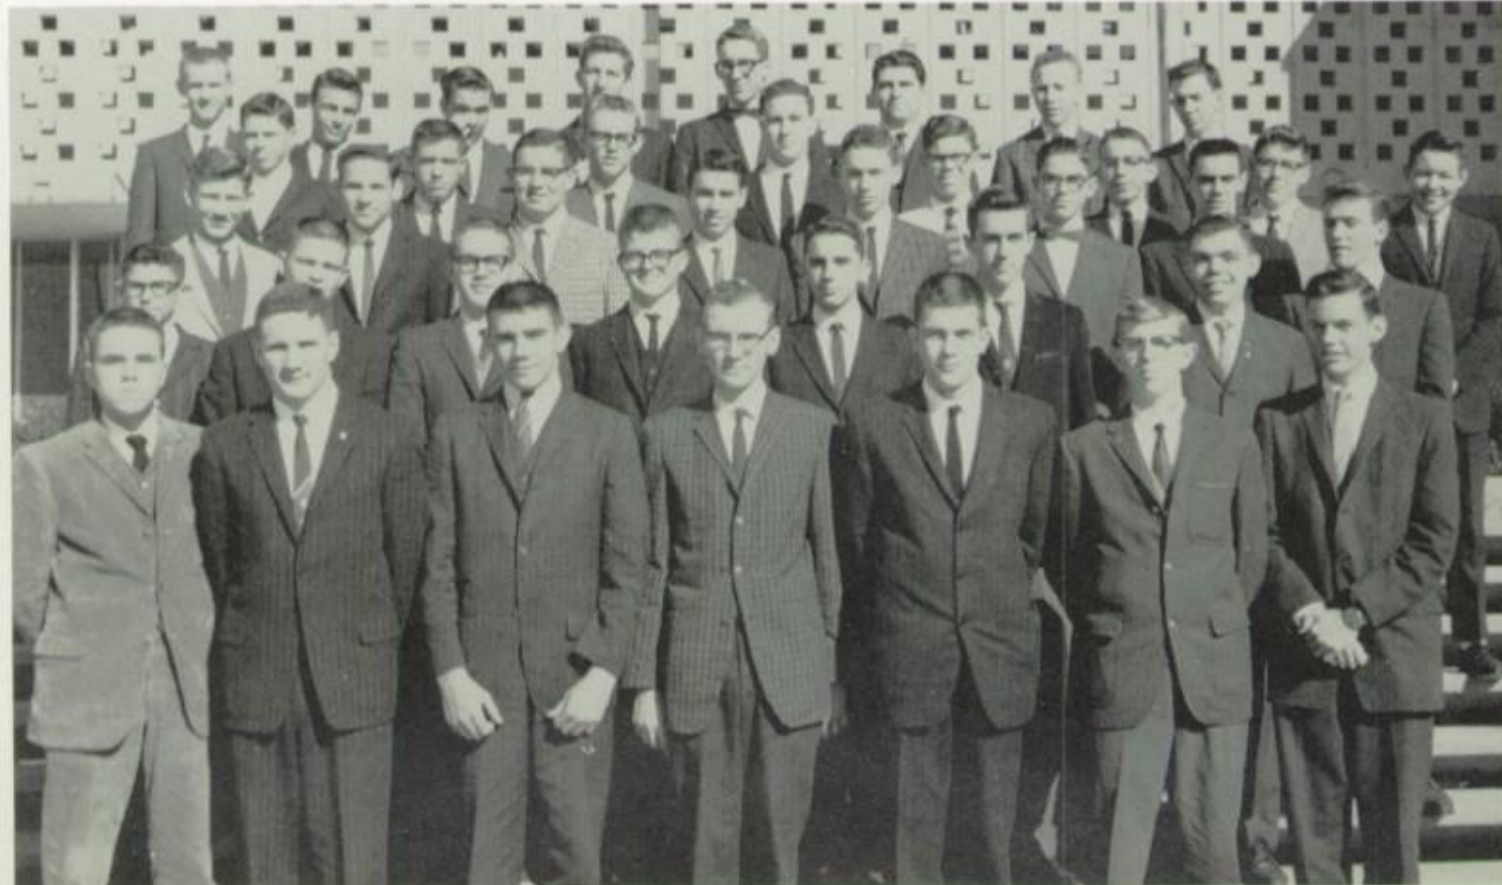

Releasing energy and relaxing from the strain of class work, the members of the Gym Club used their club period to develop further their physical well-being, their mental alertness, and their accuracy in games, such as basketball, volleyball, ping-pong, and football.

Jets Centers on Varied Engineering Forms.

Films on engineering and field trips to local points of scientific interest were among the plans for the Junior Engineering Technical Society. A new feature of the club's activities was an engineering project required of each member.

Realizing the scientific challenge of the age, the "JETS" strive to promote interest in science and engineering and to help members choose their field of future endeavor.

Promoting high ideals at Provine, Boys' and Girls' Hi-Y enjoyed guest speakers, singers, and devotionals at weekly meetings. At the State Hi-Y Legislature Boys' Hi-Y members copped two awards and one honorable mention. Thanksgiving and Christmas projects portrayed the Christian ideals of Girls' Hi-Y in action.

Conferring in preparation for a joint meeting of the Girls' and Boys' Hi-Y's are officers Beth Frankinson, Delores Martin, Candy Woodward, Sherry Monk, David Ingebretsen, Larry Copeland, Alton Smith, Larry Watkins, Ricky Hudgens.

Hi-Y Instills Christian Ideals Within Provine.

K. Jones, Robert Evans, Billy Arledge, Billy Inman.

Hunting and Fishing Club Stresses Outdoors.

Films and guest speakers were key ways by which the Hunting and Fishing Club achieved its purpose—to stimulate interest in hunting and fishing and to accent safety in these activities.

Provine students' interest in becoming Nimrods was evidenced by the fact that the club boasted 170 members.

JCL Puts Emphasis on Classical Civilizations.

"Bow, you slave" were familiar words after the Junior Classical League Slave Auction on October 23. A trip through Hades during the initiation program, a Roman banquet, translation and mythology contests at the Central Mississippi Latin Convention and the State Convention, stationery and name labels sold to finance the trip to the National Convention in Montana—these made up a part of the activities of the Junior Classical League of Provine.

Highlighting the Mu Alpha Theta's activities were the annual initiation banquet on the Heidelberg Roof, a trip to Ole Miss, and the monthly programs featuring speakers from over the state.

The Mu Alpha Theta provided a mathematics library that was available, not only to members, but to any student enrolled in math. The club also sponsored an annual National Mathematics exam.

To help stimulate a wholesome academic outlook and to promote good citizenship at Provine are the general purposes of this High School and Junior College Mathematics Club. More specifically, the club strives to acquaint its members with the workings of mathematics and to give students insight into the beauty of the subject.

National Honor Society Emphasizes Scholarship.

In its first full year at Provine, the National Honor Society offered to its members programs on scholarship. Students whose scholastic records permitted them to qualify and who were approved by the faculty were initiated in formal services on October 19, 1961, and later purchased pins which signified membership in the Society. The purpose of the club was to promote leadership, scholarship, service, and character in students of Provine.

Comprising the executive council of the National Honor Society are Paulette Warren, treasurer; Jimmy Purser, president; Mr. Purvis, sponsor; Julie Revels, vice-president; Margaret Riley, secretary; Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Slaughter, Miss Bisland, and Mr. Lundquist, advisors.

'Palladian' Stimulates Authors of Tomorrow.

Recognition for the best poems, short stories, and essays written by students of Provine, Peeples and Hardy was given in the Palladian. A staff composed of Provine students made their selections of the best entries and sent these to judges who selected a first, second, and third place winner under each category for each grade level represented. Staff members worked after school to compile into a magazine the papers submitted by the English teachers as the best writing of their students.

Mrs. Margaret Davis, sponsor of the Palladian, displays some previous literary publications.

Chris Roberts, Jeanne Burnet, Alice Criswell, Martha Byrd, Ulrich Stachel, Arnold Sumrall, Tommy Freeman, and Jess White are the senior members of the Palladian staff.

Palette Club Cultivates Appreciation for Art.

Making posters advertising football games and Class Capers, decorating the school for Christmas, and preparing decorations for the cafeteria were chief activities of the Palette Club. Members had the opportunity to do advanced work in the field of art in which they were interested. Guest speakers lectured on the fine points of art, and students gained experience through projects sponsored by the club.

Palette Club. First row: Betsy Upchurch, secretary; Teddie Jo Weaver, treasurer; Ulrich Stachel, president; Mrs. Loyacono, sponsor; Second row: Rose Herrod, reporter; Jimmy Caldwell, Ronny Shaffer, Wayman Wheeler, David Collins, Mike Grogan, Earle Ownby, Robert Sheppard.

Photography Club Interests Camera Enthusiasts.

In the darkroom, members of the Photography Club developed pictures for the intra-club contest which was the highlight of the year. They increased their knowledge of the use of different cameras and films, and guest speakers explained various picture-taking techniques.

Photography Club. First row: Mrs. Slaughter, sponsor; Rufus Lewis, reporter; Carol Arrington, secretary-treasurer; Howard Vickers, vice-president; Bob Nickle, president; Second row: Jeanette McGuire, Becky Monk, Melvin Mullins, Sue Kenmore, Rosanne Whalen; Third row: Diane Marler, John Erdle, Marinell Moore, Joy Allen; Fourth row: Mike Vinson, Doug Patterson, Lloyd Pursley, Jasper Neel; Fifth row: Don Cochran, Woody Hendrick, Sonny Ashley, Mike Barren, Donny Shoemaker, Roody Walden, Johnny Walker.

What's developing in the darkroom? Pictures, what else! Bob Nickle and Sonny Ashley, Aries photographers, work hard preparing pictures for the Photography Club.

The KKK (Karen's Krazy Krew), Randy Roberson, Charlie Sullivan, Ronnie Boyt, Phil Colson, and Bob Orndorff, laboriously move the choir's risers.

Provine Choir Fills School With Merry Voices.

Appearances before the Optimist Club, Rotary Club, and the National U.D.C. Convention, the annual Christmas program on Teen Tempos, and singing for the First Federal Foundation Program in a statewide telecast highlighted the Provine Choir's year.

The choir also entertained the student body with a Christmas program, sang for P.T.A. meetings, and presented a spring concert.

'Rambler' Gives Complete Coverage of News.

Trying to win another All-American Award from the National Scholastic Press Association was the goal of this year's Rambler staff.

Selection of the 1962 Who's Who and a memorable basketball game with the Aries staff to finance the trip of delegates to the National Scholastic Press Association convention in Chicago, Illinois, were some of the many highlights sponsored by the Rambler.

Always keeping in mind their objective of "Press-ing for a Progressive Provine," the Rambler staff greatly improved the spirit of Provine's student body. In their editorial columns they presented many ideas that encouraged students to work together to better themselves and their school.

"Why is there a blank space here?" asks Mr. Vinson, sponsor of the Rambler, as he checks over the copy of a future newspaper.

Composing the heads of Rambler's departments are Larry Copeland, assistant business manager; Martha Byrd, managing editor; Jeanne Burnet, editor; Martha Holliday, assistant editor; Kitty Perry, advertising manager; and Jimmie Purser, business manager.

Collecting the latest news for the Rambler are news editor, Louisa Woods; feature editor, Lynn Simms; news editor, Sherry Monk; news bureau editor, Vagn Hansen; photographer, Sonny Ashley; sports editor, Milton Mizell; news bureau editor, Danny Evans; and assistant feature editor, Billy Robertson.

Getting set to publish the next edition are Rambler staff members, Beth Ewing, copy and proofreader; Ronnie Davis, ad and page layouts; Frank Whittington, exchange editor; Tommy Naef, copy and proofreader; McCoy Hamilton, assistant news editor; Jeanie Farris, copy and proofreader; Brenda Braud, ad and page layouts; Nina Johnson, typist; Naomi Barlow, circulation manager; Virginia Brown, copy and proofreader; Alice Criswell, typist.

Studying journalism techniques by looking over past editions of the Rambler are Joe Posey, Marcus Bowers, Joe Turnage, assistant sports editors; Bob Nickle, photographer; Sammy Tucker, cartoonist; Carol Arrington, class editor; Jean Kinard, girls' sports editor; Lynda Berry, art and promotions editor; and Linda Young, class editor.

Receiving ads for the Rambler are solicitors, Anna Dennery, Margaret Riley, reporter; Pattie Kurts, Marty Bee, Ann Gambrell, and Barbara Scafidel.

Covering school activities on the Rambler staff are reporters, Jimmie Gentry, James Curtis, Bobbye Jean Carruth, Judy Warren, Jimmy Toombs, Cordis Myrick, Sue Hardy, Elizabeth Doddridge, and Shirley Neely.

Red Cross Encourages Service to Others.

Preparing Christmas boxes to be sent overseas are Red Cross members Larry Copeland and Jo Ann Gardner.

Christmas boxes sent overseas, a school directory for the coming year, and a scrapbook exchanged for another from a foreign country were some of the major activities of Provine's Junior Red Cross.

Attending the State Convention on November 16 and 17 were four representatives, Laura Justice, Sherry Brown, Larry Copeland, and Ronny Shaffer. These Junior Red Cross members learned about Red Cross work through a film, a workshop, and speakers from Atlanta.

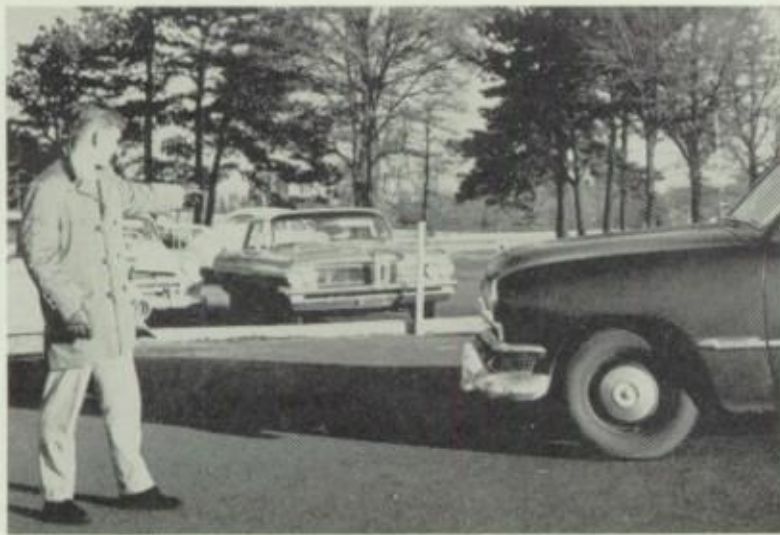

Quill and Scroll Centers Thoughts on Writing.

Entertaining programs by Mississippi authors, the initiation ceremony, and the yearly banquet comprised some of the events enjoyed by Quill and Scroll members.

Creative writing submitted at the monthly meetings was later compiled into their annual magazine, Potpurri.

Ulrich Stachel, Provine's "traffic cop," directs cars as they enter the parking lot. Assisting traffic was one of many Safety Council projects.

Safety Council Leads Effort to Prevent Auto Accidents

Issuing permits for use in the school's parking lot was the Safety Council's biggest project of the year. Members also cleaned up the parking lot each day.

The group promoted "Safety Week" at Provine and concluded the year with a trip to the Southern Safety Conference at Little Rock, Arkansas.

Stage Band Makes Hit With Musical Numbers.

"Come on, fellows, let's get the feel of the music," pleads Mr. Jones, sponsor and director of the Provine Stage Band, as they rehearse a number.

Trying to give interested band members a wider scope of musical experience and to provide the student body with a variety of musical enjoyment, this club played the "big band" arrangements. The group gave several concerts during the year and also played for school dances.

Lots of luck to a kind, great, wonderful, guy, good job well done
Jimmy

Demonstrating his skill with the racket, Robert Bradford skillfully returns a serve.

Films on the art of "racketeering," programs on court etiquette, and occasional guest speakers marked the activities of the Tennis Club. Through these programs, the club fulfilled its purpose—to promote and strengthen interest in tennis.

Eighty-five members of varied ability found a common meeting ground (or court) in this club. Novices learned from the more experienced players who were on the tennis team, and the new courts added a spark of enthusiasm, not only to club members, but to everyone interested in tennis.

Majorettes Compose Twirlers Club.

"Aren't the majorettes good!" was often heard during a performance of Provine's band at half time activities on the football field. These majorettes, whose interests followed such things as marching steps and baton twirling routines, composed the Twirlers' Club.

Selling jewelry to buy new capes and practicing for the State Band Contest and for half time activities during the football season occupied the time of the Twirlers' Club.

Demonstrating her twirling skills, majorette Betty Carlisle goes through a routine.

Theater Guild Makes Provine Little Broadway.

"Get that pencil point out of my ear!" pleads Sue Russell as Bonnie Langfitt tries out Oriental make-up for Flower Drum Song.

Working in close coöperation with the other branches of the Theater Guild, the Make-Up Club provided the make-up for the school production, Flower Drum Song. Members had the task of learning how to apply make-up for a production that required a Chinese-American cast. In their programs during the year they received help from guest speakers who lectured on the art of applying make-up.

Advertising Provine's musical, The Flower Drum Song, through posters in store windows, feature articles in newspapers, and stickers on students' cars played a main part in the activities of the Publicity Club of the Theater Guild. Drawing ideas from guest speakers and listening to records of The Flower Drum Song and other hit shows occupied their meetings before and after the production.

With paint brushes and hammers in hand, members of the Stage Craft Club built sets and created atmosphere for each of Provine's productions, particularly for The Flower Drum Song. Although this group worked behind the scenes, it was an important part of the Theater Guild. During off-season the group studied safe and effective building of sets through the aid of films.

Cheerleaders Boost Spirits With Lively Yells.

"Rams! They're G-R-E-A-T!" This familiar yell, heard at pep rallies and football games, was the trademark of the Ram cheerleaders.

These eight school spirit specialists encouraged Provine supporters at sports events, served at team barbecues, and in true Ram spirit won a special award at the Cheerleader Clinic at Ole Miss.

Provine cheerleaders Pat Horne, Donna Dickson, Jean Kinard, Vicki Howard, Mary Lou Stanley, Pam Hiatt, Sandra Harris, and Alice Criswell hover over the Ram emblem in the gym.

"Ahoy, there!" shout Provine's new sailors as they prepare for a naval battle. Their warship was secured for a pre-game pep rally.

"You can't beat 'em!" yell Provine's cheerleaders as they practice cheers after school in the gym.

To mold the character and develop to the utmost the athletic ability of young men is the responsibility of the members of the Provine coaching staff. By giving individual attention to players, teaching fundamentals, scouting opposing teams, mapping strategy, and planning schedules, these men constantly strive to insure the success of Provine's athletic teams. As a result of their efforts, the Rams have won numerous championships and awards in Big Eight Conference competition.

Athletic managers, First row: Joe Turnage, Jimmy Toombs, Billy Allen; Second row: Bob Fulton, Tommy Hontzas, and Joe Posey, worked long, hard hours keeping the sports equipment in good condition.

Provine Football Team Compiles 7-2-1 Record.

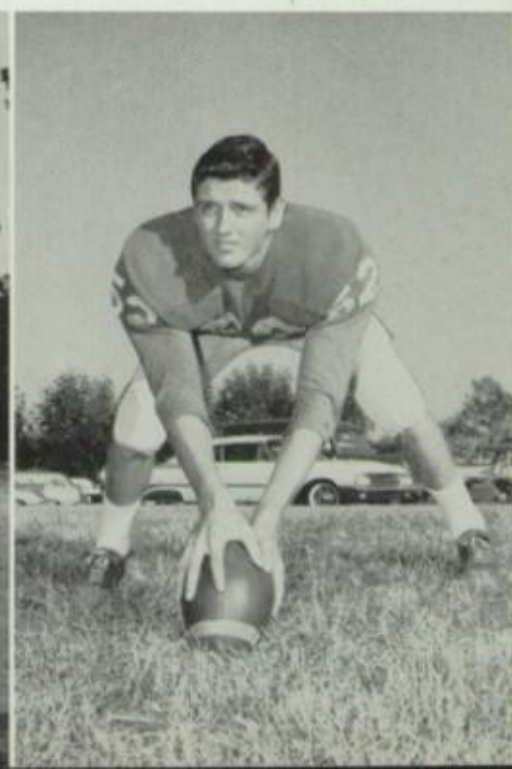

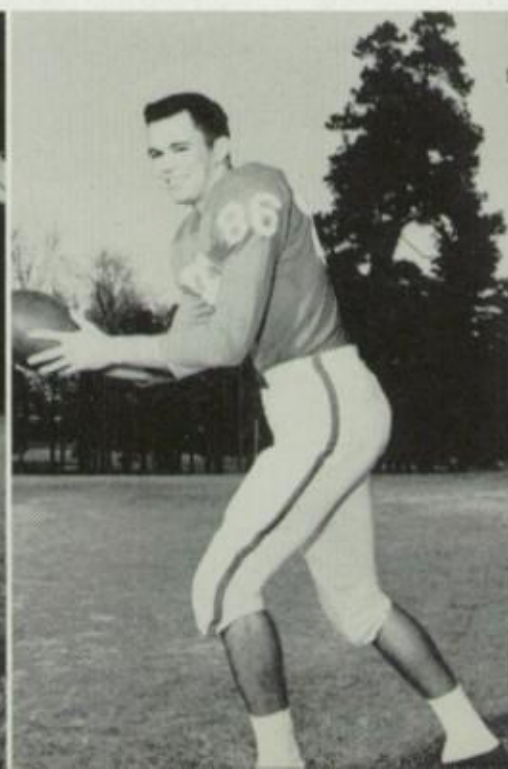

Closing the season with a record of seven wins, two losses, and one tie, the Provine Rams ended their second most successful year in the school's history. The defending Big Eight Conference Champs, after a tie with Natchez, roared past Central and six other foes before McComb tripped them up. In the final game Murrah edged by the Rams for the City Championship in a hard-fought contest won in the last thirty seconds.

Rams Tie Rebs, Smash Central in Openers.

Defending its 1961 record as Big Eight Conference Champs, Provine suffered an upset as the visiting Natchez Rebels held them to a tie. A Newell Field crowd of 7,000 people watched the Natchez Rebels battle the Rams to a 6 to 6 deadlock. Although the Rams came back in the second quarter from a 6 to 0 deficit and tied the score by halftime, neither team could mount a scoring thrust again. Jim Martin scored the lone Ram touchdown on a three-yard keeper play.

With determination to win a third consecutive city championship, the Rams displayed superior power and depth in trouncing the Central Tigers 19 to 0. Before a crowd of 10,000 the Rams displayed a potent offense and a rugged defense that proved to be too much for the Tigers. After quarterback Jim Martin had broken the scoring ice with a five-yard sweep around left end, Bobby Puckett tossed a 25-yard pass to Don Felts for the second tally, with Felts kicking the extra point. Skirting left end from a yard out, Puckett scampered over for the final six points.

As guard James Tullos (61) leads the play, halfback Jimmy Reynolds (23) sweeps left end for a first down against Central.

Gridsters Demolish Columbia, Picayune.

Seven Rams charged across the goal line to defeat the Columbia Wildcats in the third game of the season by a score of 48 to 0. The Rams scored two touchdowns in each of the first three quarters and added a final in the fourth. The first time they got their hands on the ball, the Rams marched for a touchdown and continued the blitzkrieg by both ground and air.

In the second of five consecutive road games, the Rams unleashed a furious first-half ground attack and then beat down a second-half rally by Picayune to defeat the Maroon Tide 14 to 6. Provine struck for a touchdown in each of the first two quarters with fullback Joe Malone going 7 yards for the first and 54 yards for the second. End Don Felts kicked both extra points.

Eluding the desperate grasp of a Columbia tackle, Joey Kirkland streaks across the Wildcat goal for another Ram touchdown.

Rams Mutilate Hattiesburg by Record Score.

Scoring a record 52 points, the Rams rolled to their fourth consecutive triumph by trouncing the Hattiesburg Tigers before a large crowd of boosters from Jackson. After a tight first quarter, Provine turned the game into a complete rout by scoring three touchdowns within three minutes in the second quarter.

Halfback Alton Smith caught passes of 25 and 56 yards from quarterback Bobby Puckett and ran another for 42 yards, and Dusty Rhodes caught two touchdown passes to lead the Rams' scoring. A rugged defense, headed by Fred Roberts, James Tullos, and Earle Willoughby, along with fumbles by Hattiesburg, never gave the Tigers a chance to present a scoring threat.

Provine Scalps Yazoo Indians by 28-0 Count.

With a devastating running and passing attack, Provine gained victory number five by blanking the Yazoo City Indians 28 to 0. There was no stopping the Rams under the quarterbacking of Bobby Puckett and the line-smashing of Joe Malone, Alton Smith, and Jimmy Reynolds. Provine built up a 14 to 0 lead by half-time with Joe Malone and Dusty Rhodes doing the scoring. Alton Smith then brought the spectators to their feet by rambling 81 yards for a touchdown to open the second half. Jerry Little blasted over for the Rams' final tally.

Invading the Mississippi Gulf Coast, the Rams edged the Biloxi Indians 19 to 14 in a spine-tingling contest. Heavily penalized, the Rams were able to score only once in the first half, halfback Alton Smith racing to paydirt, and trailed 7 to 6 at halftime. Smith electrified the crowd by taking the second half kickoff and dashing over for the final Provine tally. Though the aroused Indians roared back to score once more, the Ram defensive team, led by Ray Freeman, Charles Wilkinson, and James Tullos, stifled a last-minute threat to bring Provine a hard-won victory.

Rams Top Panthers but Lose to McComb.

Before a jubilant Homecoming crowd, Provine came from behind to gain victory number seven by defeating the Brookhaven Panthers 25 to 21. Though Bobby Puckett and Joe Malone scored, Provine trailed 14 to 12 at halftime. Alton Smith put the Rams in front to stay in the third period, with Dusty Rhodes returning a Brookhaven punt 64 yards for the final tally. The defensive standouts were guard James Tullos and halfback Jimmy Reynolds.

Fighting to the finish, visiting Provine suffered its first defeat of the season, falling to the McComb Tigers by a 20 to 14 margin. Spearheaded by Joe Malone, Jerry Little, Alton Smith, and Jimmy Reynolds, the Rams led until late in the fourth quarter, when the determined McComb squad roared back to go ahead and then stopped a final Provine drive on the one-yard line with 30 seconds left.

All-Big 8 fullback Joe Malone plows through the Brookhaven line for a sizeable gain.

Provine Falls to Mustangs in Season Finale.

Scoring on a last minute desperation pass, Murrah defeated Provine 14 to 7 and won the City Championship from the defending champion Rams in an exact reversal of the 1961 battle, won by Provine 14 to 7. Bobby Puckett's pass to end Dusty Rhodes provided the only Ram score. An unyielding Provine defense contained the powerful Murrah Mustangs most of the game with key tackles being made by Alton Smith, Earle Willoughby, and Ray Freeman. Other defensive standouts were James Tullos and Dusty Rhodes. Smashing running plays by Joe Malone, Alton Smith and Jimmy Reynolds made it a battle to the end.

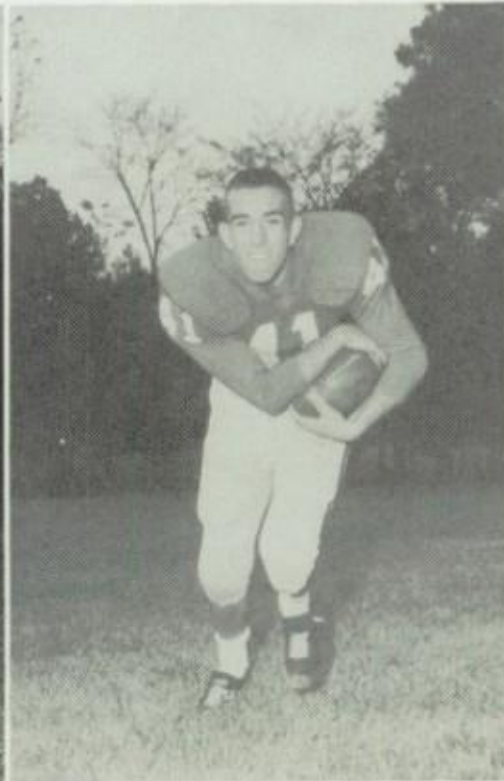

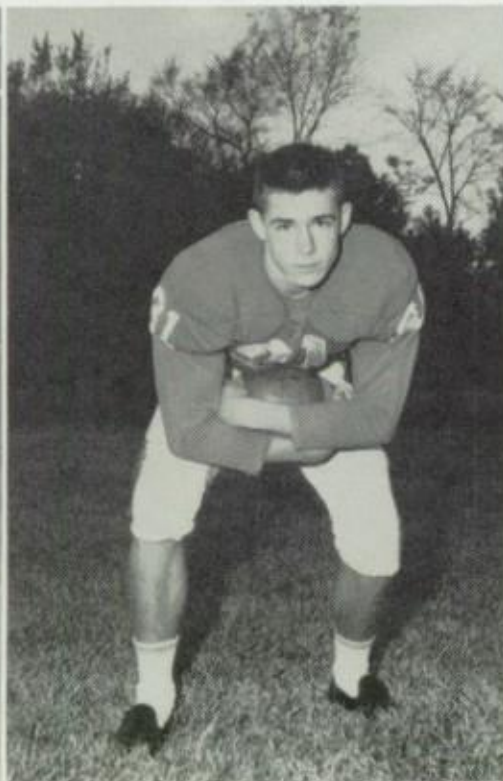

Provine lost the Murray game, but as the unhappy Ram fans filed out of Newell Field, they could look back on an outstanding 7-2-1 record, the second best in the school's history.

Ram Cagers Capture Second in Sub-District.

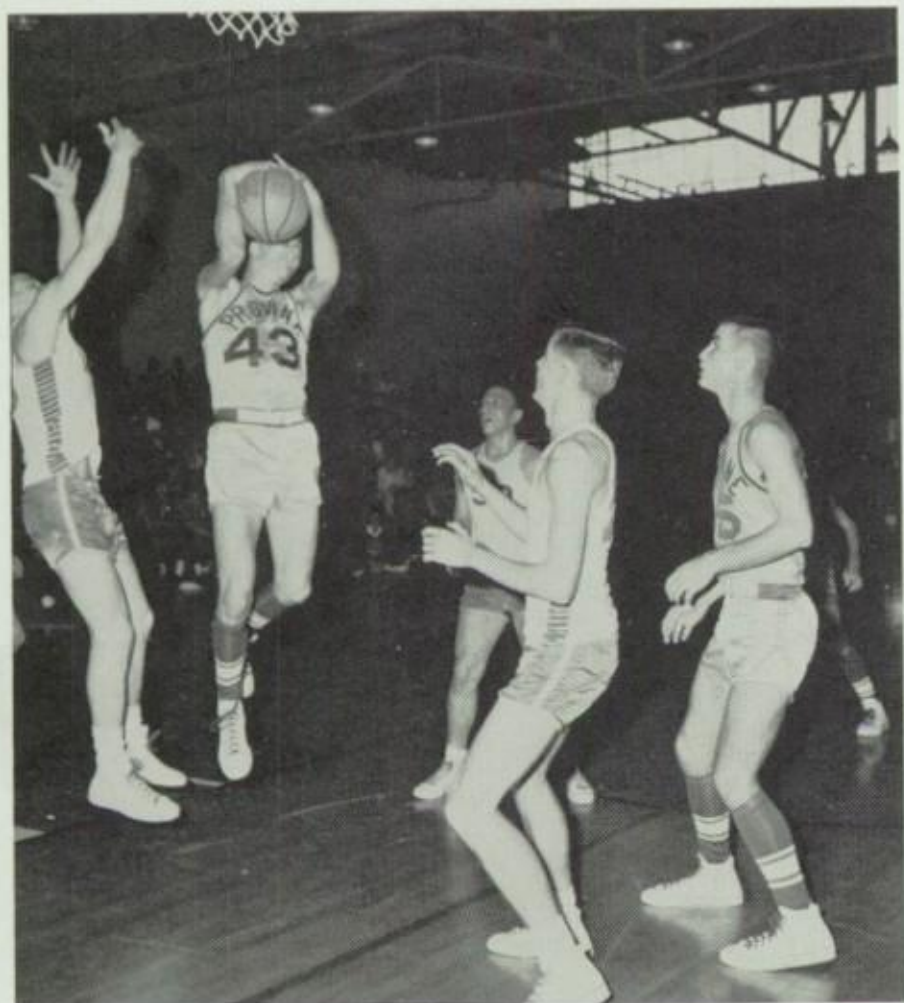

After falling to Forest Hill in the Forest Hill Invitational Tournament, the Rams bounced back to defeat Laurel. Provine lost to Murrah, McComb, and Brookhaven before entering the Hinds County Tournament, in which the Rams defeated Clinton, but later fell to Murrah. Two wins over Laurel and Natchez were followed by a loss to Columbia. Provine won over Natchez and Brookhaven before entering the South Big 8 tournament.

Big wins over Moss Point and McComb put the Rams into the semi-finals, where they fell to the eventual Big-8 champions. In the consolation game, Provine defeated Columbia to finish third in the South Big-8.

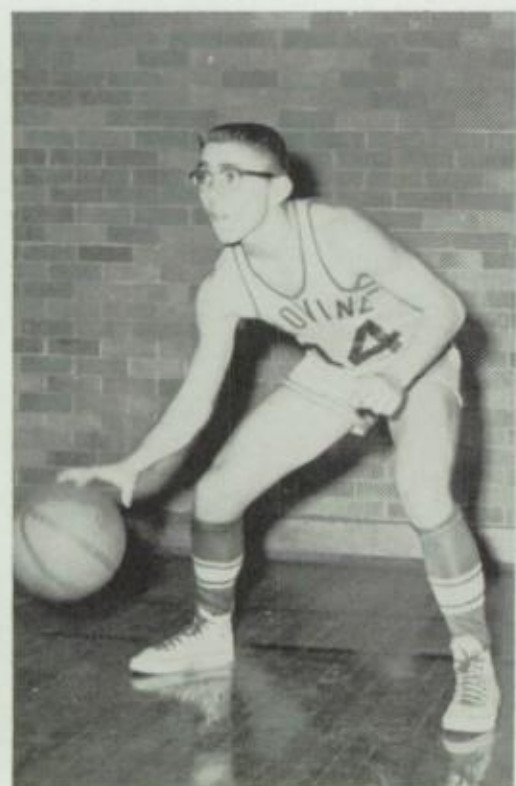

In the Sub-District 6 Tournament at Forest Hill, after rolling over Vicksburg and Clinton, the Rams fell to Forest Hill. Second place rankings in the Sub-District earned Provine a place in the district playoff. In the District 6 Tournament at Brandon, the Rams won their first game and then ended their season with a loss in the semi-finals.

"That rebound was mine," states Charles Wilkinson as Frank Schneider pulls in another.

On the schedule for the Ram thinclads were the traditional South Big-8 and overall Big-8 meets as well as the Canton Invitational, the Jackson Daily News Relays, the City Track Meet, and the second annual Provine Relays. Physical Education Develops Athletic Skills.

At a time when physical fitness is being stressed over the nation, the boys' Physical Education Department, through physical fitness tests administered twice a year, encourages its members to keep their bodies in good health. After a brief session in calisthenics, the boys participate in different sports: football basketball, softball, volleyball, weight-lifting, tennis, and ping-pong.

"One, two, three, four . . ." chants Coach Shook as his gym class keeps fit by doing push-ups.

Using isometric contraction, a newly developed form of muscle-building, Larry Harms adds inches to his back and shoulders.

Girls' Gym Classes Promote Physical Fitness.

Gym assistants Beverly Brooks, Penny Lea, Colita Jones, and Patsy Screws confer with Mrs. Harpole in preparation for an intramural volleyball tournament.

Participating in the President's Youth Fitness Program, the girls' physical education classes offered the students the opportunity to engage in a wide variety of intramural sports. Realizing that a strong body helps obtain good habits of mind, five hundred and fifty-one girls took part in volleyball, basketball, archery, table tennis, badminton, softball, tennis, and physical fitness exercises.

To give the spice of rivalry to these sports, each class period chose a team in volleyball and basketball to compete for the school championship and hard-earned honor points.

"If you take the ball away one more time, I'll cry," says Linda Morrison to her rivals Judy Conner and Wanda Gardner.

"I've got it!" scream Diane Mahaffey, Jerry Porter, and Becky Moak simultaneously as a senior gym class competes in a fast game of volleyball.

Outstanding Personalities Merit Highest Honors.

Throughout the year the students of Provine won acclaim for themselves, their school, and their state by attending numerous conventions, participating in notable activities, capturing many high honors, and claiming recognition for their persistent scholastic endeavors. Pictured on the following pages are not only these students, but also those personalities who, in the judgment of their classmates, have been deemed most outstanding and most deserving of the highest honors of the 1962 Aries and of Provine High School.

A new club at Provine, La Societé Honoraire de Francais for outstanding French students, included Ronny Shaffer, Vagn Hansen, Louisa Woods, Martha Byrd, and Anna Dennery.

Student body officers leading the Rams were Charles Wilkinson, President; Earle Willoughby, Vice-President; Nicky Cirlot, Secretary-Treasurer; and Jeanne Burnet, Reporter.

With victories in local and state contests, Provine girls received recognition for beauty and personality in the Miss WJQS, Miss Tammy Teenager, Junior Miss Jackson, and Junior Miss Mississippi contests.

Senior Anna Dennery brought honors to Provine as Junior Miss Jackson. She also placed first alternate in the Junior Miss Mississippi contest.

Miss Tammy Teenager, Jane Vinson, checks through her record collection. Jane competed with girls from all over the nation to win a trip to New Orleans.

Senior Glenda Farlow was chosen "Miss WJQS" in a city-wide contest.

Ram Delegates Claim Top Convention Honors.

"Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order" was often heard in the chambers of the Mississippi State Legislature, where Provine delegates to both Hi-Y Legislature and the fourteenth annual Mississippi Youth Congress received numerous awards.

At Youth Congress Ram lawmakers—by capturing six superiors for speaking from the floor, debating from the floor, using parliamentary procedure, and presenting an outstanding bill—won the High School Sweepstakes Award.

Delegates to the Hi-Y Legislature brought further honor to Provine by winning superior ratings for best bill and best performance from the floor and providing the clerk of the House of Representatives.

Jess White, who participated in Boys' State, was named State Insurance Commissioner, one of the twelve highest honors presented.

Representing Provine in true Ram fashion, the Youth Congress delegates won the High School Sweepstakes Award with four superiors earned by Steve Sanders and two superiors won by James Peden. First row: Margaret Ferguson, Kitty Perry, Gundy McKeithen; Second row: Jerry Krohn, Sonny Jenkins, Steve Sanders, Danny Lee; Third row: Charlie Sullivan, Ronald Goodbread, Dusty Rhodes, James Peden, Jimmy Reynolds.

The following students participated in the annual Hi-Y Legislature: Steve Sanders, David Ingebretsen, Sammy Tucker, Howard Rainey, and Larry Watkins. Steve was selected clerk of the House; Howard received an award for best performance from the floor; Larry, for best bill; and Sammy won an honorable mention for journalistic coverage.

Westward ho! Three Student Council members, Jeanne Burnet, Steve Sanders, and Libby Byers, traveled westward to attend the Southern Association of Student Councils held in Amarillo, Texas.

Chosen by local civic groups, the following students comprised Provine's delegation to Boys' State and Girls' State: Charles Wilkinson, Jess White, Bob Bryant, Margaret Riley, Beverly Brooks, and Susan Lambright.

On-the-spot legislature and executive experience, interesting speeches from noted local and state officials, and a mock government, complete with city projects and court trials, were events that highlighted governmental activities at Boys' and Girls' State.

Three members of Provine's Student Council traveled west to Amarillo, Texas, for the Southern Association of Student Councils convention, where they attended work clinics, studied different types of student governments, and received many new ideas.

In addition to sending five delegates to the Mississippi Association of Student Councils at Central High School, Provine students housed fifty delegates from over all the state, and collected souvenirs to be given at the convention.

Studying the fundamentals of student government at the MASC Convention, the following delegates gleaned many ideas for Provine: Bennett Price, Charles Wilkinson, Pam Hiatt, and Alton Smith.

Provinites Win Recognition for Varied Abilities.

Winning the title Rotarian of the Month and attending Rotary Club luncheons every Monday were the following: First row: Steve Sanders, James Peden, David Ingebretsen, Jimmie Purser; Second row: Earle Willoughby, Charles Wilkinson, Nicky Cirlot, Jess White.

Rotarians of the Month, oratorical contest honors, essay prizes—these and many other awards were won by Provinites throughout the year. By being named DAR Citizenship Girl, Mississippi Power and Light Girl, or Rotarian of the Month, several students were honored by local civic or business organizations. In intra-school competition, winners were selected for the Betty Crocker Homemaking Award and in the Voice of Democracy contest. In competition with other schools, Provine claimed a first alternate appointment to the United States Military Academy, a Lions All-State Band member, and the Mississippi winner in the United Nations Essay Contest.

Sherry Monk, senior class vice-president, was selected as the Good Citizenship Girl by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Beaming Kitty Perry won the first place award in this year's essay contest sponsored by the United Nations.

Seniors Don Cochran and Sonny Ashley were selected finalists in the National Honor Society Scholarship competition.

Mississippi Power and Light Girl, Rambler editor Jeanne Burnet, pauses at the entrance to the patio.

Senior Russ Grant, hoping to pursue a military career, received a first alternate appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Besides winning the Voice of Democracy Contest, Vagn Hansen merited selection to the Lions All-State Band and will travel to France with that group this summer.

Ramona McClelland, who looks quite at home serving tea, was awarded the Betty Crocker Award for achievements in all phases of homemaking.

Representing home economics students on various fashion boards were Deenie Assaf, Martha Byrd, Janice Lockley, Kennington's Fashion Board; Betty Ann Dukes, Co-ed Magazine; Sue Anderson, McCall's Magazine; and Sue Efferson, Kennington's Fashion Board.

Tri-state winner in the Singer Sewing Machine Company's Young Stylemaker Contest was Margaret Brown.

Colleges Grant Scholarships to Senior Rams.

Scholarships, scholarships, scholarships—the rewards for long hours of diligent study—were awarded to numerous Provine seniors throughout the year. Stipends came, as they had in previous years, not only from local and state institutions, but also from national foundations.

Most notable, and reflecting credit upon both the faculty and the student body, was the fact that Provine could claim twelve finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Program. Completely dominating the scholastic competition at the Jackson colleges, members of the class of '62 won twelve scholarships from Millsaps College and seven from Belhaven.

On the national level, also, Provine had four finalists in the Naval ROTC Scholarship Program and three in the Hertz Engineering Foundation competition.

Nancy Fagan, Margaret Riley, Jimmie Purser, Ronny Shaffer, Martha Byrd, Mary Ann Van Devender, and Julie Revels (not pictured) competed with other high school seniors on High School Day and won scholarships to Belhaven College.

Joe Malone, outstanding Provine athlete, received a football scholarship to Ole Miss.

Named Naval ROTC competition finalists were James Peden, Larry Weaver, Vincent Anderson, and David Ingebretsen.

Sonny Ashley, James Peden, and Jackson Johnson were named finalists for the Hertz Scholarship, which was awarded for participation in extracurricular activities and high scores on the National College Board Examination.

Students Excel in Scholastic Achievements.

Displaying outstanding scholastic ability, these twelve National Merit semi-finalists also placed as finalists. First row: David Ingebretsen, Louisa Woods, Chris Roberts, Beth Ewing, Don Cochran; Second row: Vagn Hansen, James Peden, Jackson Johnson, Eddie Strahan, Dusty Rhodes, Sonny Ashley, and Howard Rainey.

Classes

Onward,
Forward,
Upward,
Enthusiastic sophomores,
Determined juniors,
Dedicated seniors —
Provine High School.

Officers Guide Largest Class in Ram History.

On the threshold of their high school careers stood this year's sophomore class, in eager anticipation awaiting all that Provine had in store for them. Though slightly awed by the size of the school and the large number of new friends, soon the sophomores had become an integral part of the school's way of life.

Classes were stimulating and the courses, challenging. But to break the daily routine of homework and tests came the pep rallies, football and basketball games, assembly programs, and Class Capers. Although sophomores found themselves the youngest class, they made up for what they lacked in experience with exuberant enthusiasm.

Then, as quickly as it had begun, the school year ended, and class members began to look forward to their junior year. In retrospect, not even the sessions in the auditorium could dim the wonderful memories of the first year at Provine or detract from the promising future of the Class of '64.

Considering the use of stars as a theme for the Junior-Senior Prom, are Bobby Puckett, president; Walter Dowdle, vice-president; Margaret Brown, secretary; Linda Young, reporter; Mrs. Sullivan, sponsor; and Coach Morgan, sponsor.

Officers Give Impetus to Junior Activities.

After an eventful and rewarding sophomore year, members of the junior class looked forward to bigger and better things and more responsibilities in their second year at Provine. Planning and financing one of the highlights of the school year, the Junior-Senior Prom, was a newly acquired responsibility; preparing a skit for Class Capers was also a fun-filled event.

Schoolwork and extracurricular activities made time fly, and, before they knew it, their class rings had arrived, and the 1961-62 year was quickly slipping away.

Looking back over the year, they were aware that they had accomplished the main objective of their junior year, preparing themselves to accept the leadership of Provine High School.

Senior Officers Lead Spirited Class of '62.

Happily trying on caps and gowns as they prepare for graduation, are Pam Hiatt, reporter; Sherry Monk, vice-president; Mrs. McPhail, sponsor; Steve Sanders, president; Lynn Simms, secretary; and Mr. Jones, sponsor.

Progressing through their eleven years of school, Provine students had eagerly anticipated their senior year. And when that year arrived, the seniors found it brimming with exciting events, thrilling ball games, senior teas, the Junior-Senior Prom, Class Capers.

But the year was not just parties and ball games. It meant greater challenges and responsibilities, college entrance examinations, term papers, publication deadlines, student body leadership.

As the Provine seniors graduated, they gained not only precious memories, but knowledge from both books and experience. They left behind a record of a successful year—a challenge to be met.

John,
This year has been great, but it rolled by too fast. So bad we didn't do more things with it.
Have fun at S. M. U. - you're a great guy and a great pal.
Stay just like you are.
Richard

Dearest John,

Knowing you this year has just been wonderful. Your friendship has meant more to me than you'll ever know. Throughout the rest of your life I wish you the very best. I know you will be successful, because, not only are you the greatest sax player I know, but you possess a warm, outgoing personality. I hope you won't forget some of the things from your senior year - our Chemistry classes, Mr. Vinson, "Midnight Sun." I sincerely hope that God will bless and keep you always.
Love, M. P.

Johnny —

Johnny —
your friendship has meant a lot to me this year. I hope that when you go off to school you will remember the good times we had — Continue with your music. I'm expecting great things —

John,

I have really enjoyed knowing you this year. We have had a lot of good laughs since everything has been straightened out. Best of luck in everything you may do.

I am,
